BUSY WEEK IS
FACED BY OHIO
STATE SOLONS

Legislation Will Be Speeded
Up For Inauguration.

TAX MATTERS UP
Senate To Give Consideration To Griswold Resolution

Columbus, O., Feb. 21.—Preliminary to a week's recess, to permit Ohio legislators to attend the inauguration of President-elect Harding at Washington next week, the solons have a busy week mapped out for them today.

The senate is to give consideration to the Griswold debt limitation resolution and bill and the Taft bill providing suspension of the Smith one per cent tax act and affording temporary financial relief for cities. These measures passed the house last week.

The house labor committee is to conduct hearings on the Schimpf bill providing for a minimum wage commission. The senate judiciary committee on Wednesday morning, is to hold a hearing on the McCoy bill providing for more rigid censorship of motion pictures, eliminating pictures showing crime. Tomorrow night, the house labor committee is to hold a hearing on the old age pension bill and at a hearing on Wednesday morning, will consider the Muhleman bill authorizing an eight hour day and a 48 hour week for working women.

When the bill providing for abolition of annual and quadrennial registration of voters and substituting a single and continuous plan of registration is introduced this week, the committee on elections will immediately arrange for public hearings.

Then there are numerous relatively minor measures to be considered.

Gov. Davis' citizens taxation committee is to resume its hearings today in an effort to determine upon recommendations to the legislature to be authorized as a basis for enacting permanent taxation legislation.

The committee's recommendations, it is believed, will be based either upon strict enforcement of the uniform rule of taxation or submission of a proposed constitutional amendment abolishing the uniform rule, placing a 1 1/2 per cent rate limit on real estate and providing that real estate shall pay either a direct or an income tax.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS
WILL IMPROVE SAYS
REPORT U. S. C. OF C.

There Will Be No Sudden
Return To Prosperity
Review Avers.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Confidence that business conditions from now on will show a gradual improvement was expressed in a business review issued by the United States Chamber of Commerce. Prepared by Archer W. Douglas, chairman of the chamber's committee of statistics and standards, the review stated "the most convincing evidence that we are on the high road to recovery is found in the universal report from every section of the country of steadily growing sentiment that business will be better in the spring."

The review predicted there would not be a sudden return to prosperity, but a "slow and natural working out of these processes of liquidation which are now in full operation."

RURAL CHURCH WILL BE TOPIC OF MEET

Columbus, Feb. 21.—About a dozen denominations are represented by the more than 50 delegates attending the inter denominational conference of Ohio church leaders opening here today to consider rural church needs. The conference held under the auspices of the Ohio federation of churches, will end Wednesday.

Rev. Robert E. Pugh, of the Presbyterian state headquarters, chairman of the executive committee, Ohio Federation of Churches, is presiding. Rev. B. F. Lamb, secretary of the federation will submit survey reports covering rural church conditions in 50 counties.

Pastors from Greene county who expect to attend the convention include: Rev. G. C. Foltz, Bowersville, M. P. Rev. W. A. Cooper, Jamestown, M. E. Rev. V. E. Butler, Cedarville, M. E.

ORPHEN GETS PENSION
Brussels, Feb. 21.—A pension of $400 a year has been granted to the orphaned daughter of General Leman, defender of Liege when the Germans invaded Belgium in 1914. The battle of Liege was the first of the world war.

PRESIDENT WILSON AS HE LOOKS TODAY AND AS HE DID IN 1913

All who have seen Woodrow Wilson during the closing days of his eight years as President of the United States have observed the great change in his physical appearance, caused by the breakdown in health he suffered many months ago. The retiring President is far from the robust man he was when he first entered the White House in 1913. The picture, taken as he went into office, shows strength and vitality in every line of his strong features. Today he is far from being a well

Cleveland, Feb. 21.—One man is known to be dead, and it is feared that several others are buried under the mass of wreckage of the old Masonic Temple on Superior Ave., N. E., which collapsed shortly before 11 o'clock this morning. While no bodies have yet been removed from the wreckage the body of Nate Soddovitch, a workman can be seen pinned beneath a mass of timber and brick.

Harding in Excellent
Shape to Tackle Duties

Three Cabinet Posts Are Yet Unfilled—Labor Award
Develops Into Grave Predicament With No
Candidate Noow Available.

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 21.—Weeks of outdoor life until the semi-tropical sun of the south has put President-elect Harding in just perfect physical condition and he will enter upon his presidential duties ten days hence with a physique far stronger than enjoyed by many of his predecessors. The result of his months exercise is plainly seen. He is deeply tanned by the sun, his step is more springy and he appears physically fit to undertake any strenuous task. For the remainder of his stay in Florida there will be no deviation from his system of exercising out doors at least half of the day.

Little if any progress was made by Mr. Harding over the week end in filling the three places in his cabinet that admittedly are still vacant. The president-elect's advisers said today that he is frankly in a quandry over the naval portfolio in particular. He has counted so strongly on this berth being filled by former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, that Lowden's refusal to be considered for any office has left the whole situation up in the air. A number of names are "under consideration"—John Hays Hammond probably being foremost. The same is true in a somewhat lesser degree of the labor and commerce positions. Herbert Hoover's status has not been determined definitely. A close personal adviser of the president-elect said today he considered Hoover's cabinet chances are "fifty-fifty."

CONGRESS TURNS IN TO HOME STRETCH IN A
NECK AND NECK RACE WITH FATHER TIME

Washington, Feb. 21.—Congress turned into the home stretch today in a neck and neck race against time. With but ten legislative days remaining before the present session ends, there was every indication today that some of the important legislation now on the way will never reach completion. In the senate, the big task is the passage of appropriation bills, which already have been passed by the house. There are rumblings which forebode ill for some of these appropriation bills, particularly the naval appropriations bill. The army appropriation bill, providing for reduced military forces will also be the subject of considerable debate and will retard any rapid progress by the upper body in disposing of the jam of legislation now steadily mounting.

NEAR EAST SITUATION ALARMING;
ALLIES TO PUT SCREWS ON GERMANY

League Of Nations Council
Meets In Paris On Monday.

EXAMINE PROPOSALS
Impose Stranglehold On
Former German Territories.

Paris Feb. 21.—A firm determination was apparent when the league of nations council met today to impose a stranglehold upon former German and Turkish territories thus preventing south American and Scandinavian neutrals from again attempting to bring up the terms of allied mandates when the league of nations assembly meets again in September. This was one of two certain results that was foretold when the representatives assembled just before noon in the salon of the Petit Luxembourg palace. The other was that "open diplomacy" would receive the cold shoulder.

"The original order of the day provided that the first business of the session should be the appointment of a committee to examine proposals for amendments to the league covenant, virtually all of which had been suggested during the assembly meeting in Geneva. Despite the program of business president DeCunha of the council informed the International News Service that there was a strong current of feeling among the delegates that the question of publicity should be taken up first and definitely settled. A resolution on the matter of publicity was before the council when it met, having been introduced at the assembly meeting in Geneva by Lord Robert Cecil representative of South Africa.

A canvass of the council representatives showed there is not the slightest disposition to hold public meetings of the council, except possibly stage dressed affairs to approve decisions reached secretly. However, in deference to the delegates from the British dominions and sentiment prevalent in the United States the council likely will adopt a scheme whereby the formal communiqué will be augmented by informal statements from a member of the council at the end of each session. It would be his office to answer discreetly the interrogations of the newspaper correspondents.

Drafts of mandates, which in each case, will have been prepared by the interested mandatory power, probably will be approved with little if any change, although Dr. Wellington Koo, the youthful Chinese ambassador to Great Britain who is representing China on the council said he was going to register some objections against this procedure.

It is understood that Sir Robert Borden, delegate from Canada, has decided to accept the chairmanship of the committee on proposed changes in the covenant. These amendments include some that were put forward by Canada at Geneva, notably one to kill article X.

The other proposed amendments include one sponsored by the Scandinavian countries for the democratization of the league and one proposed by Argentina to admit Germany to the league forthwith and to take control of the league out of the hands of the allies giving this control to the "recognized powers" of the earth.

CAN'T SAVE SOULS
BY LAW DECLARES
BISHOP IN SERMON

Cleveland, Feb. 21.—"You cannot convert souls by law," declared Bishop W. A. Leonard, of the Episcopal church yesterday in a sermon preached in commemoration of the birth of Washington. "We have heard much lately concerning the revival and renaissance of the blue laws. Many of them remain on the statute books, mute relics of an age, the extreme repression of which had proved their own inevitable undoing."

"Our special obligation is the insistence upon a common tongue as taught in the public schools; the insistence upon morals as indicated by the word of God, and the insistence upon what is termed as Americanization."

"We are in danger of losing our hold and grip upon convictions and of indulging ourselves in varying opinions."

CASTS BREAD UPON WATERS SHERIFF GETS
IT ALL BACK IN TIP ON JAIL DELIVERY

Chicago, Feb. 21.—The scriptural adage about bread cast upon the water returning has a firm disciple here today in Jailor John I. Murphy. While feeding prisoners in the detective bureau, Murphy slipped an extra chunk of bread to John Salaman, under arrest for wife desertion. Salaman was so grateful that he tipped Murphy off to a jail delivery plot which according to Salaman's story, involved the murder of Murphy himself.

Acting on information given by Salaman, Jailers searched the cells occupied by four of the most hardened criminals in the jail and found the bars almost cut through by saws that had been smuggled in.

Liberation of fifty prisoners in the detective bureau was to have been attempted early today, Salaman told the police, after the plotters had sawed through the bars, killed Murphy and opened the cells with his keys.

2 INTERNATIONAL
CONFERENCES HELD

Two international conferences of the first magnitude of importance are being held in London and Paris this week. Allied representatives met in London to discuss near east problems. The council of the league of nations met in Paris to consider mandates and proposals to amend the covenant of the league of nations. Some of the league delegates held that this would be an auspicious time to amend the covenant to conform closer to America's ideas as President-elect Harding will come into office in two weeks. Another great allied conference to discuss indemnity and other German problems will open in London a week from tomorrow.

REVIVAL OF GERMAN
PROPAGANDA SEEN
BY AMERICAN LEGION

Bulletin Says Object Is To
Turn United States
Sentiment

Indianapolis, Feb. 21.—American Legion posts throughout the United States were asked last night by the Legion's National headquarters here to watch for a revival of German propaganda in this country.

The bulletin which was sent to national headquarters said the object of the propaganda seemed intended to turn American sentiment against the allies and to create "a powerful national political machine by the amalgamation of the disloyal elements in our population."

Mass meetings in New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Chicago, Milwaukee, Louisville, Omaha and Cleveland have been planned the bulletin said, as "one of the first national manifestations" of the propaganda campaign.

"There is some to the attention of the national headquarters information indicating a move or a nationwide revival of German propaganda activities in the United States which are the result of a carefully directed national campaign, the object of which seems to be:

"First, the disruption of the accord which exists between the United States and our allies, with particular reference to France and Great Britain by the turning of American popular sentiment against the governments of those countries and.

"Second, the methodical creation of a powerful national political machine by the amalgamation of the disloyal elements of our population and their elevation to a place of power in American affairs by the invisible influence of this organized minority."

BLIZZARD RAGES

STRIKES NEW YORK

Many Dead as Storm Sweeps
Out To Sea—Worst In
22 Years.

New York, Feb. 21.—Buried under a 12-inch blanket of snow, New York struggled to carry on business as usual today though traffic was partially blocked and much suffering was caused by the storm.

No less than ten deaths, scores of accidents, delayed trains and belated commuters was the net result. The storm, it is estimated, will cost the city about $1,000,000.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 21.—New England's worst blizzard in 22 years had swept out to sea today, leaving in its wake a death toll of several scores of craft piloted on the coast, railroad and street car traffic demoralized and a mass of mangled telegraph wires and snow clogged roads.

Allies Call Conference In London To Discuss
Plans.

ADMITTED: SERIOUS

Turkish Question Worries
Allied Chiefs—"Deal"
May Be Arranged

London, Feb. 21.—The near east conference in London this week, when the allies will discuss measures to end the warfare in Anatolia, was regarded by many of the leading morning newspapers today as the "most important meeting since the peace conference in Paris."

"The encroachments of the Russian soviet in the near east have added a grave new element of importance to the situation in that quarter of the world. Upon the eve of the assembling of the delegates word came from Constantinople that the Russians have overrun Georgia, setting up a red government at Tiflis. Armenia already had been overwhelmed. Now the path lies open for soviet armies to cross into old Turkey to join the Turkish nationalists."

The formal sessions will not begin until tomorrow but there were numerous conferences at Premier Lloyd George's official residence and at the foreign office to arrange preliminaries. The premier met representatives of the French, Italian, Greek and Turkish delegations which have already arrived.

The Kemalists or representatives of the Turkish national government at Ankara are expected later in the day.

Attempt Reconciliation
The Greeks as well as the Allies will endeavor to reconcile the rival Turkish delegations before the conference opens tomorrow. The Turkish faction already on the ground resents the sultan's old government at Constantinople, which the nationalists have repudiated.

Members of the various delegations conferred among themselves, exchanging views upon the treaty of Sevres (the Turkish treaty) which may be modified. This treaty was signed while Premier Venizelos was in power at Athens. After the overthrow of the Venizelos government and the return of Constantine as king, the allies prepared to modify the treaty. The Greek delegation came to London to make a strong fight against any revision of the treaty that would "take away from the Hellenic kingdom territory allotted it from the old Ottoman empire."

It was learned from an authoritative source that probably no definite decision will be taken on the proposal to ratify the Turkish treaty but that the matter would be referred to a sub committee for a decision later. All the interested parties would file briefs with this committee.

It is possible that a "deal" may be arranged between the two leading powers at the conference—Great Britain and France—by which Premier Lloyd George will meet some of Premier Briand's views as to Germany in return for which the French prime minister will consent to certain British claims regarding Turkey. The British have been the chief support of the sultan's government at Constantinople but the brunt of fighting against the nationalists has fallen on the Greeks.

MARION AUTHORITIES
HOLD MAN SUSPECTED

Marion, Feb. 21.—Robert Barnett, 21, who appears to be 25 and who is a Mormon, according to police Chief James W. Thompson, is being held in the county jail here as a suspect in the murder of two school teachers near Cleveland last week. Barnett bears the scars of deep scratches on his neck and face. He scratches are quarter moon shaped and the police chief says they look as though they might have been made by the sharp nails of a woman. Barnett says he got them in a fight with four men in Toledo Monday night when he lost his coat and hat and walked to Caledonia, where, almost frozen, he was picked up by the village authorities.

CARDIFF HAS NO MARKET FOR COAL: SHIPS LIE IDLE

London, Feb. 21.—Cardiff, normally the greatest coal shipping port in the world, has been stricken by American and German competition until more than fifty ships lie idle alongside her docks, while the situation grows daily worse.

Cardiff is being cited in England as the telling example of what labor must do to increase wages, if there is to be a revival of industries in Britain.

Briefly, its situation is this: A few months ago the continent, particularly in France and Italy, were crying for coal. Then when strike threatened exports were cut to increase local stocks. When the strike came, exports were stopped. When the national stoppage ended, Cardiff advanced to find that on the one hand German deliveries to France under the treaty had been in great volume and on the other that America had stepped in and supplied both France and Italy, with almost complete stocks for their needs.

Cardiff Loses Market. Cardiff was virtually without a market. Coal could not be sold abroad at the quotations set for export coal. Far-off America could figuratively "carry coals to Newcastle," or undersell the greatest coal port in the world practically on her own doorstep.

During the same time America, due to the slashing of prices and in some degree to lessening of wage charges, virtually stole the Canadian tinplate market from the Welsh plants.

And Belgium, which was the first of the European nations to start in earnest to reconstruct its industries, came apace in the field of iron and steel. Belgium can deliver steel bars in Swansea at roughly $52 a ton, against an English manufacturing cost of $88. Cardiff's hinterland manufactures tin plate and steel product, and produces coal. For none of these can it find a foreign market.

Striking figures are being given also as to shipping costs. It is estimated that the daily cost of operation of a 6,000-ton tramp in 1905 was $66 in 1913 was $100 and today is $540. Cardiff has a million tons of shipping which cannot be operated at a profit and a vast amount of it cannot be operated at all, for there is nothing to be carried.

Labor War Coming. Cardiff sees no way out except lower production costs, which must come through lower wages. Labor throughout not only Wales but the whole of the British Isles is cut for a fight to a finish against general wage reductions.

Labor argues that industrial rehabilitation will come through raising the standard of living, through increase of workers' opportunities to buy. There is a deadlock of industrial theories. It is probable that for months, meanwhile Cardiff takes on the appearance of Pittsburgh in a panic year.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL
Thousands Have Discovered
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums, so do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dizziness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

SCHOOL BILL WILL CHECK JUVENILE CRIME IS BELIEF

The Bing bill relating to compulsory attendance now before the legislature should prove a check on the wave of juvenile crime which is now sweeping over the country, according to school authorities.

Superintendent C. A. Waltz says of it: "Along with other school superintendents, I am highly in favor of the bill. The bill is in connection with school attendance is especially needed at this time when the industries are taking the pupils away from education when it is needed the most. The bill has my hearty endorsement and there is no doubt as to its success."

School authorities, truant officers and probation officers claim that the present laws are ineffective. The Bing bill changes the laws relating to girls only slightly, but sets the same requirements for boys as for girls, requiring them both to attend school until 16 years old. At 16 they may work but if they do not get a position they will be required to stay in school until 18.

The Bing bill requires the same amount of schooling for country children as is now required for city children. No child will be excused from school to go to work until he has received age and schooling certificate. The school in every school district shall not be less than 32 weeks. But children under 16 will be allowed to work outside of school hours and during the summer vacation, if they can pass physical examination.

To enforce school attendance in country districts the bill provides for the employment of a full time attendance officer, replacing the many part-time truant officers now employed by local boards.

In communities where there are as many as 25 children between 16 and 18 years with work certificates, when in a radius of three miles, the bill requires the establishment of part time continuation school. Twenty Ohio cities have already established such schools. Employers claim that the children are more valuable at their work because of the vocational training.

A committee of school experts has spent a year in drafting the bill. It has been approved by the leaders of the Grange, the Farm Bureau the State Federation of Labor, the Ohio Manufacturers' Association, the State Teachers Association and the Parent-Teachers Association.

Superintendent Waltz has received a letter from State Superintendent Vernon Regil, which stated that the House Schools Committee has reported in favor of the bill. Information has been received also by Mr. Waltz that the Wenner bill in connection with physical education in the schools of the state has been unanimously adopted by the Schools Committee. A dorse by the House has been introduced to repeal the teacher's pension fund, but no action has been taken upon it.

The Fares bill recently introduced in the House has been reported for passage. The bill is in favor of the election of County Superintendents instead of the present system of District Superintendents, has been accepted favorably.

OWNERS OF LOTS IN DODD'S ADDITION TO HOLD MEETING

The formation of a temporary organization will probably be effected at a meeting of all owners of lots in the Dodds addition, which will be held in the commission chamber Tuesday evening at seven o'clock.

The meeting has been called to bring up the question of the improvements on the lots guaranteed at the time of the purchase, during the real estate auction last spring, and the question of what to do with the gravel pit which is now situated in the property.

A large number of the lots were sold with improvement guarantees, it is said, which have not yet been fulfilled, and at this meeting the lot owners hope to reach some agreement on these improvements. City Manager Kenyon Riddle has been asked to meet with the body, and it is thought that plans for the city improving the streets and property along with other improvements will be discussed.

Sidewalks, curbs and gutter, street grading and gravelled streets, were promised the purchasers at the time of the sale. Part of these sidewalks and gutters, only, have been established.

STORK POSTPONES TRIAL IN COURT

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 21.—"I don't know whether it will be a boy or a girl, but I have to excuse the jury and call off the trial for the day," said Judge Webster Thayer in Superior Court. "The Wife of District Attorney Edward T. Esty, is at the hospital. We expect glad tidings at any hour."

Spectators smiled when they learned the unusual cause of adjournment of the trial of Oscar and Hugo Willgerodt, father and son, jointly charged with arson in the setting of the Slater Building fire.

SCHOOL NOTES

In the past month Central High has been honored by two important speakers, Mr. Southwick, who spoke on "Signs" and Rev. Van Kirk, of Youngstown, designer of the famous World's flag which was accepted with honors at the peace conference and which will be the banner of the League of Nations.

Rev. Van Kirk's topic was "The League of Nations" and at the conclusion of his address buttons, pamphlets and stamps to help the League of Nations cause, were sold. The flag designed by the speaker was also displayed.

The public is promised a fine evening's amusement Tuesday night when Judge Baggot of Dayton, and his clever assistant, appear in an entirely new playlet, "Out of Court." High school girls are selling tickets and the admission price to the public is 75 cents, with no seats reserved. Judge Baggot is well known here having appeared in one of his humorous sketches at the Masonic Club last fall.

The Washington's birthday program which previously was an important topic is now lacking in interest. The various other enterprises, the "Up to the Minute Week," Junior Class Play and the Review entertainment have all been the centers of attraction for the students.

CHURCH PRESENTS PASTOR WITH A CAR ON SATURDAY

The Rev. Charles P. Proudfoot, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church, was presented with a Ford sedan Saturday morning by his congregation.

The gift was made by the congregation as a token of the esteem in which its members hold their pastor, who in his service as minister of the Second Church has become intensely popular with those he came in contact with.

Rev. Proudfoot did not occupy the pulpit at the services Sunday morning, Dr. J. H. Webster, former Xenian, of the faculty of the Xenia Theological Seminary at St. Louis, delivering the morning sermon. An interesting feature of the services was that Dr. J. G. Carson and Dr. J. G. C. Webster of College Corner, took part in the services, all being relatives of Dr. Webster.

HORSES ACCOMPLISH WHAT AUTOS FAILED TO DO IN COLORADO

Grand Junction, Col., Feb. 21.—The truck horse may be obsolete in the East, but Grand Junction city officials claim that the real old-fashioned "horse-power" has proved more efficient than any tractor or automobile horse power to be found locally.

The city wanted to move its five ton rock crusher from the river bed to a location across town and had to use skids to sled the machine. A forty horse power tractor, aided by several automobiles was unable to budge the heavy crusher, but six powerful horses were attached to the crusher and snaked it through the streets, although the asphalt was melted in spots under the great weight.

WOMAN UNCONSCIOUS FOR SEVERAL DAYS

The condition of Mrs. Frank Considine who has been ill at her home on Linn and Miller Avenues for several weeks, is reported critical. Mrs. Considine is thought to be suffering from sleeping sickness, and has been unconscious for several days.

OBITUARY

"You may crush, may break the vase if you will, But the sweetness of the roses, remain with us still."

On the first day of August, 1920, there came to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Huston, a darling baby boy, Elbert Darrol.

But God in his loving providence saw fit to remove this beautiful little life, and on February 12, 1921, Elbert fell asleep in Jesus, aged 6 months, and 12 days.

The angel messenger gently came in silence, with her rustling, silken, wings carried the little rose from its mother's breast, transplanted it in its heavenly crib, where suffering is no more.

The first few weeks of little Elbert's life had been frail, but to the delight of his fond parents, had seemingly grown stronger.

Sad it seems that life should be cut so short when youth offers so many opportunities and promises, but they are most blessed who, with pure hearts and unsullied minds, thus escape the many snares and sins that are hard for the young.

But, oh what a relief to our broken hearts when we read those precious words, "Of, such is the kingdom of heaven."

Elbert leaves to mourn his loss, with bleeding hearts, Father, Mother and one Brother, Cecil, a number of relatives and friends.

Baby Elbert thou hast left us, And thy loss we deeply feel; But 'tis God that has bereft us, He can all our sorrows heal.

A Friend.

Mathias W. Gerard, the son of George and Elizabeth Gerard was born on the 28th day of July, 1840, and departed this world February 14, 1921, having lived 80 years, 6 months and 16 days. He was married to Elizabeth A. Cline November 22, 1860. To this union two sons were born, William L. and David L., who are well known in their home township and who cared faithfully for Father, through his long sickness, doing all that loving hands could do.

Besides his two sons, three grandchildren and five great grandchildren, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ellen Cline and a brother Isaac, the brother living on an adjoining farm and the sisters near by. He is also survived by two half sisters, Mrs. W. Madison Cline near Gunnersville, Mrs. D. R. Johnson of Cedarville and a half brother Lewis Gerard of Jamestown.

Mr. Gerard has always been a peaceable farmer never, bringing anyone in, or being in court himself. He spent all his life on a farm within this neighborhood; in fact the home spirit is a characteristic of the whole family. The brother, half brother, sisters, half sisters, children and grandchildren all live near the old home.

Mr. Gerard has lived a moral life, and has always supported the M. E. Church of which his wife was a member. His going marked the departure of a pioneer soul that will be greatly missed.

"WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA."

Do you know about this publication? If not, you ought to, for it is one of vital importance. It is a Biographical Dictionary of notable living men and women of the United States. In one sense we suppose it is synonymous to publications in almost all countries giving the names of the most important personages of these countries—as for instance the titles of royalty. But in another sense too it is quite different, for the leading idea in our "Who's Who" is the names of persons who have "done something worth while," which often cannot be said of those others.

Our "Who's Who" was started over twenty years ago, a new volume being issued every second year, so that the present one is Volume II—and as a consequence the size of the books have greatly increased during this time. The books are about the "fattest" published—one 7½ inches tall by 3½ inches thick—and containing over 3000 pages.

Arbitrarily certain names go in—as for instance members of Congress, members of the Cabinet, all U. S. Judges, all Governors of States, all our Ambassadors and Ministers to foreign countries, etc. But beyond this, you will have had to do something worth while to entitle you to a place in "Who's Who."

Coming under this latter class, besides Congressman Fess, we find in this last volume of "Who's Who" the names of but seven Greene County, Ohio, people, as follows: W. R. McChesney, President of Cedarville College; O. E. Bradfute, Cattle Breeder; Charles W. Drees, Missionary; Jesse Johnson, Theologian; Joseph Kyle, Theologian; Findley Torrence, Author, and Joseph E. Wisheart, Clergyman. Only 8 names in a volume of over 23,000 sketches.

The sketches average about what would be three to four inches in length in an ordinary newspaper. As a sample, we give one, that of Mr. O. E. Bradfute, of our county, as follows:

Oscar Edwin Bradfute, cattle breeder; born near Cedarville, Ohio, January 21, 1862; son of David and Martha E. (Collins) Bradfute; degree B. A. by Ind. U., 1884; married Jennie M. Collins of Xenia, Ohio, August 10, 1890; breeder of Aberdeen-Angus cattle since 1887; head of firm O. E. Bradfute and Sons; an organizer Int. Live Stock Exposition at Chicago, 1899, and still member board of directors; member White House Industrial Conference, October, 1919; lecturer at Agri. Colleges and State Farmers' Meetings; Trustee Ohio Ag. Exp. Station; Trustee Ohio State U.; member Phi Delta Theta; Democrat; member U. P. Church; home, Xenia, Ohio, Rural No. 5.

Just now, when President-elect Harding has been interviewing so many prominent men, we are all interested in knowing all about them, and as "Who's Who" gives us this information, in a condensed form, it has been in great demand. But, in fact, those who have been having "Who's Who" for years, hardly feel able to keep house without it, so many occasions seeming to make it almost as essential as the dictionary.

Of the making of books there is said to be no end, and here is our testimony that "Who's Who" has been a source of advantage to us for many years.

NEITHER CONGRESS NOR THE COUNTRY IS MUCH AGITATED.

Congressional circles do not take very seriously the proposed impeachment of Judge Kenesaw Landis, federal judge and baseball dictator.

They do not for the reason that the two members of congress gunning for the fiery federal judge are both Democrats who go out of office March 4. While they are getting large gobs of publicity out of their attacks on the judge at this moment, their period in the limelight ends inside of three weeks. They become private citizens then and what a private citizen may think or say about a federal judge attracts the minimum of attention compared with the spotlight it draws when charges are made from the floor of congress.

The controversy between Judge Landis and Senator Dial and the formal impeachment charges preferred against the judge by Representative Welty of Ohio are two separate and distinct affairs. The only difficulty the Senator is in when he talks about impeaching Judge Landis is that he hasn't authority to do it. Impeachment proceedings must start in the house. The senate acts only as the trial court after formal charges have been voted by the house. So that while Dial can speak as much as he pleases and denounce Landis as fulsomely as he desires, he is out of luck on impeaching. All he can do is to get some house member to start proceedings.

Senator Dial is a new comer to the senate, chosen only to fill an unexpired term. He is a rockribbed conservative, and seldom speaks except on cotton. Occasionally he has taken a crack at labor unions. But Dial's chief forte, until he got in this controversy with Landis, was to "raise hob" with the cotton exchange and talk on the cotton situation. He has not been a prominent member.

Welty, in the house, who brought the impeachment proceedings on the baseball allegations, has been an inconspicuous member. He was defeated for re-election. The attack he has made against Judge Landis brought him more notoriety than he had attained before in the house.

The history of impeachments before congress is that many are started, but few are brought to a conclusion. Some member gets riled at some public official. He tries to oust him in every other way. And failing then he resorts to impeachment, which makes necessary a hearing. The member rises, makes formal charges upon his oath as a member, and they go to the judiciary committee. Examination of the records of congress show that bulk of the impeachments stop right there in the committee. This safeguard against impeachment is resorted to, else the congress would be doing little else except trying grievances against public officials.

STUCK IN THE TURNSTILE

Is It Yours?

KARL CZERNY

February 21, 1921

Everyone who has ever studied the piano or who has taken even a few piano lessons is familiar with the name of Karl Czerny, who wrote an extraordinary number of five fingered exercises and studies to give the pupil smoothness and speed, as well as accuracy in playing.

Karl Czerny was born in Vienna in 1791, the son of a piano teacher. The boy showed talent for music, that under his father's training, he performed in public at nine and at 14 was able to support himself by teaching. He came under the observation of Beethoven who took him for a pupil, and did him the great honor to select him to be the first to play Beethoven's celebrated "Emperor Concerto" in public.

He soon became the most popular teacher in a capital which at that time was full of first rate musicians. Franz Liszt was one of his many famous pupils. As a composer, he did an extraordinary amount of work, for at the time of his death, his compositions numbered 849. Musicians say that comparatively few of them possess great merit and none disclose any genius.

But he was very skillful in composing works that would increase the ability of the pupil and his various studies for the piano and his elementary and advanced exercises have probably had a wider circulation than any other works of their class.

Czerny died in 1857, and having no family, left his large fortune to charity.

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

From the way they are grading and graveling the Rapid Traction road bed from here to Dayton, it doesn't look very much like that line was going to be torn up soon, even if the much-talked-of consolidation does take place.

Several gangs of workmen are busy along the line right along.

Miss Kate Langan, who has been on the sick list for the past week was able today to resume her duties at the Spahr dry goods store.

Preparations are being made at the workhouse for installing the new departure in the matter of contract labor. The new addition to the building has been completed and the work of putting down the cement floor in the new cell block will be finished soon. The old cells will be taken out and the room now occupied by them will be used for the dining room. There will be forty new cells.

The work between Springfield and Yellow Springs of the new electrical line has been completed and two men are now working toward Xenia. John Martin says that the road will be one of the finest in the state. A dozen fine cars have been ordered eight of them being 48 feet in length and costing $9500 each. The road will be built the entire distance between Springfield and Xenia and over a private right of way. It is Mr. Martin's idea to so equip the road that a speed of 60 miles an hour can be made over it.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am nineteen years of age and am deeply worried. I lost my mother some time ago and as I am the oldest I have to keep house for my father and five sisters. The youngest is five years of age.

My father is harsh and cruel to me at times and has often told me to go and never come back, but the little children are so dear to me I cannot bear to leave them now. Some people tell me to go. Please advise me what to do.

I don't get half the clothes other girls have and so some people tell me to leave home because of that. But as I am decent I do not care to have people constantly running me down.

I have a cousin and she is always talking about me to my sister, who tells me the things back. I cry myself to sleep many nights and think some day I will see better times. I go to school and am always in a nice, decent place, but my cousin always runs me down. I always go with nice girls. I am good to the children and every one.

I have no boy friends. Will you please tell me a way that I can get some boy friends? I get lonesome at times and hardly know what to do. How can I entertain a boy when I am with one?

WORRIED.

It seems to me that you have a work before you which you cannot leave. For four or five years I think you should stay with the children. If your father remains hard to live with, you can go at that time with a clear conscience, passing on your work to some other sister. Right now, however, your little sisters need loving care which a housekeeper would not give them.

Clothes mean so much to a young girl that it seems a shame you cannot have more when you give so much of yourself to the home. I can see, however, that your father has quite a task providing for five girls. Perhaps in a year or two one of your sisters will be working, at which time she should pay board and the money should go to you. It is no small sacrifice for a girl to give up her own interests in order to keep house in a motherless home. Your sisters should be taught to help you in every way possible. Unless you give them their tasks, too, they will take advantage of you and expect you to overwork and sacrifice so that their lives will be easier.

In regard to boys, be yourself and use your imagination. Most boys like to be entertained and when they find a good talker who draws them out on subjects of interest to them they think she is wonderful. Read and observe so that you will be wide awake and intelligent as a conversationalist and as a listener. I cannot tell you how to get boy friends. Such a matter can never be forced. If you are friendly and interesting they will just naturally like you and want to be with you.

I believe your sister is wrong in telling you the unkind things your cousin says. Tell your sister that in the future you would rather remain ignorant of such things.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a boy twenty years of age and have been corresponding with a girl nineteen years of age. This girl has been talking love and wants to be engaged. I like her, but I do not feel as she does. What can I say?

YOURS RESPECTFULLY.

Write to the girl and tell her that you know you are too young to do anything so serious and you think she is. Say that you want her as a friend only.

DROWNS IN MINE SHAFT

Port Clinton, Ohio, February 21.—John Brainerd, 33 years old, drowned when he fell into a new mine shaft at the United States Gypsum Company Works.

THE HARDEST TEST.

I try to bear life's many ills with fortitude and grit; if I am pale around the gills, the fact I won't admit. I still attempt to smile and sing when burdened down by care; the smile may be a ghastly thing, but still you'll find it there. I've smiled when joints seemed all afire with fierce rheumatic pain; I've smiled when I must change a tire in darkness, mud and rain. I've smiled when agents sold me stock in mines that didn't pay, and when I slid around a block, upon a slippery day. I've smiled beneath misfortune's whacks, and raised no doleful din; but when I pay my income tax, I don't attempt a grin. There is a time to preach and dance, as wise apostles say, and there's a time to whoop and prance, and chortle and be gay; but he is in discretion lax, or else he's full of guile, who ponies up his income tax, and wears a cheer-up smile. His smile may reach from ear to ear, it even may be twins, but none can feel he is sincere, that he means what he grins. "There's some fell purpose in his mirth," beholders will agree; "for no white man upon the earth can pay this tax with glee. The coin we toiled so hard to get, in pain defying words, our Uncle Samuel will get—and throw it to the birds. And so no man of purpose high, no man who earns the bones, can pay that tax without a sigh, without a brace of groans."

THE VALUE OF COLD

It is well known that the women of cold countries have marvelously fine grained complexions and that as a general thing they do not grow old as soon as the women of warmer countries. This is due to the value of the cold climate they live in. Cold is astringent—it draws up the pores, it brings the blood to the face, making the complexion rosy, and it does away with much of the tendency towards lax muscles and wrinkles after middle age.

But most of us live in a change-

the summer, however, when the skin will be a little too oily and in that case you can rub the face with ice and not bother with the massage.

It is really amazing how a five or ten-minute ice rub a day will rejuvenate the complexion. The skin should be thoroughly cleansed first with soap and water and then a little cold cream should be rubbed in and wiped off with soft cloth. The ice massage should follow. It will smooth out wrinkles close up coarse pores, bring blood to the face, harden weakened muscles. It will make your skin soft and fine and glowing. If you have a double chin you can massage off most of the superfluous flesh by rubbing with ice, without, however, the preceding cold cream massage.

Weekly Market Review

Stocks
Conditions affecting the stock market have not changed appreciably and dullness and uncertainty will mark the trading, in all probability, until the month-end. The market has withstood bad news very well and seems uninfluenced by the minor currents of opinion and misinformation. Stagnation in February is seasonal. The professional element will govern the movement of prices. No reaction is probable, as the market is well liquidated. It may soon begin to discount measures of the new administration and favorable developments in business. Wall street loans are only half the amount normally outstanding. Money eases slowly, but each month brings perceptible improvement.

Grain
Opinion in the grain market is mixed and subject to rapid changes. Most traders are reluctant to commit themselves decidedly on either side. Some corn is going for export and large receipts are not expected. Corn stocks are large—much larger than last year—and deter heavy country loadings. The wheat visible is smallest within two score years, barring exceptions. Further reduction is likely. Milling demand shows some improvement. Receipts of crops as weeks go by and movement before long. The visible supply of oats is not burdensome. The necessities of spring planting are apt to start a liquidating movement, which would offset in part the influence of such constructive developments as the next month may bring.

Livestock
The livestock market retains its previous character. Large receipts almost invariably produce indigestion and demoralization. When given a short respite the market revives. Hogs are the most stable of all livestock. Stocker trade is at low ebb, owing to money stringency and recent low prices in fat cattle. Hides are lifeless, as heretofore. The spread between corn and hogs stimulates feeding and creates a demand for light stuff. Farmers are watching to see whether corn will rise or hogs fall in prices. Highest prices for hogs are usually paid in August and September, according to the department of Agriculture and lowest in December and January. Receipts are one of the chief governing influences.

Cotton
The statistical position of cotton is mostly bearish. January consumption exceeded Dec. by 71,400 bales, reports the Census bureau, but fell way below consumption of a year ago. Exports were less than in December. Total consumption this season to February 1 is only 2,233,000 bales, as against 3,139,000 bales a year ago. Cotton stocks at New York and in the south are depressingly large. The total in public storage and compresses is nearly 2,000,000 bales larger than last year. On the other hand, mill supplies of raw cotton the world over are deemed small. Foreign exchange is consistently firm and various schemes to finance exports are making headway. The number of active spindles increased during January. Farm work in the south is backward, fertilizer sales are reported small, and the movement to reduce acreage is being pushed with considerable vigor.

Wool
The prospect of a higher tariff and firmness in exchange are the two strongest constructive factors in the wool market. Demand centers on fine and fine medium grades. Importations have been heavy and Americans were active buyers at recent foreign auctions. Foreign arrivals at Boston in a single week totalled nearly 4,000,000 pounds. Prices show a slight tendency to strengthen.

Metals
Extreme dullness persists in the iron and steel trade, notwithstanding some inquiries. Price cutting has not tempted any substantial amount of business. Copper is developing a firmer tone in view of the financing project whereby the large surplus will be in part held off the market. Non-ferrous metals share the dullness which pervades the iron and steel industry.

Agriculture
Agricultural producers may expect increasing pressure from the banks consequent with the usual spring demand for credit accommodation. Many banks, especially those in regions where the holding movement has been most pronounced, will loth to extend new loans while other loans made on the old crop are still unpaid. The farmer will need money for seed, fertilizer, labor, and other items of cost which figure in spring planting, and will in many instances be forced to liquidate a part of his holdings in order to obtain further credit at the bank.

Various special credit measures are proposed to aid the farmer in his present difficulties. The senate on Feb. 11 adopted an amendment to an appropriation bill authorizing the Treasury department to purchase $100,000,000 worth of Federal Farm loan bonds in order to provide credit for the farmers. Farm organization and labor leaders predict the advent of credit union banks for workingmen and farmers. How large a percentage of farm leaders favor this type of institution is a question. Thus far the farmer-labor cooperative movement has made little concrete progress.

The copper financing plan with its $40,000,000 issue of securities suggests the adoption of a similar plan by the cotton growers, the wool growers, and possibly other farm producers. New York financial interests would be less inclined to support the agricultural producers than the copper companies, partly because copper is a less perishable commodity than grain or wool and is less subject to violent price fluctuations.

The farmers of the middle west are winning commendation for their generous willingness to donate 50,000,000 bushels of corn to the starving population of China and Europe. This corn has a market value, although it has depreciated greatly, and is the equivalent of a considerable gift in money. Aside from the labor required to deliver it, the American farmer is again proving himself a world provider—in times of want as well as times of plenty.

The loss sustained by livestock revealed by figures of the department of agriculture which show that the farmers have suffered more acutely in deflation than any other class. Beef cattle on the farms lost in average value per head all they had gained during the period of active by this country and half as much again. The average price of cattle other than milk cows was $44.22 in 1919 and $31.41 in 1921. Swine lost 88 percent of the war gain during the years 1919 and 1920. Corn lost more than its war gain.

WIDOWS AWARDED COMPENSATION BY INDUSTRIAL BODY

Mrs. Vera Simpson and Mrs. Ruth Fisher, wives of Captain G. H. Simpson and Carl Fisher, aviators who were lost when their plane fell in the Mississippi river near Tiptonville, Tenn., January 1, have been awarded $5,000 compensation each, by the state industrial commission.

The commission established a precedent in this case by awarding the maximum amount on purely circumstantial evidence. The men were employees of the Dayton-Wright Company and were selected to pilot the hydroplane to Miami, Fla., five miles south of Tiptonville, the plane turned over and plunged into the Mississippi river. The wrecked machine was recovered in 18 feet of water but bodies of the two aviators have not been recovered and it is believed that they have been swept into the gulf of Mexico.

Depositions of the testimony of three residents of Tiptonville who saw the accident were taken, and the claims granted upon this evidence. Xenia relatives of Carl Fisher, attended the joint memorial services held for the two men at the gospel center, Third and Ludlow street, Sunday afternoon. The services were in charge of Rev. J. H. Dutton.

PROMINENT NEW YORK MAN PRAISES TANALAC

John F. Hyatt, of Albany N. Y., Is Relieved of Severe Attack of Rheumatism of Many Years' Standing.

JOHN F. HYATT
227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y.

"I am now seventy two years old and am just getting rid of fifteen-year case of rheumatism that had me so crippled up I could not walk," said John F. Hyatt, 227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y., in relating his remarkable experience with Tanlac, recently. Mr. Hyatt was chairman of the committee in charge of building the Albany County court house and was four times elected a member of the County Board of Supervisors. At present Mr. Hyatt is Assistant Superintendent of the Albany County court house, with office in the building.

"I don't believe," he continued, "anybody could have rheumatism any worse than I did, and my case was of such long standing I didn't expect to ever get over it. I was unable to walk except for a short distance, supported with a cane, and even then the pains struck me every time I took a step. My legs, hips and ankles hurt something awful and my joints were stiff and aching. I couldn't cross my legs without having to lift it up with my hands, and to turn over in bed, why, the pains nearly killed me, or rheumatism at intervals. I do not

"My appetite was gone and I had been unable to walk without it for several years. I got into the habit of carrying it, and so still take it along. I am enjoying life and health once more and can conscientiously recommend Tanlac as the greatest medicine I have ever run across in all my experience."

"I had no idea Tanlac would relieve my rheumatism when I began taking it last Spring. I took it because I saw where it would give a fellow an appetite. Well, sir, I was the most surprised I ever was in my life when the rheumatic pains began to ease

up. I took seven bottles in all and, it's a fact, I didn't have an ache about me, was eating fine and simply felt like I had been made over again.

"I have been in the best of health ever since, with only a slight twinge of rheumatism at intervals. I do not need my cane now, but I had been unable to walk without it for several years. I got into the habit of carrying it, and so still take it along. I am enjoying life and health once more and can conscientiously recommend Tanlac as the greatest medicine I have ever run across in all my experience."

Tanlac is sold in Xenia by Sayre & Hemphill; in Yellow Springs by A. Finley; Bowersville, N. K. Bower; Fairfield, Paul P. Young; Osborn, C. J. Logsdon; New Burlington, W. C. Smith.

EFFECT ORGANIZATION OF COUNTY LIVESTOCK COMPANY SATURDAY

The organization of the Xenia Livestock Company was effected at a meeting of the executive committee of the Greene County Farm Bureau and especially appointed committee, held in the assembly room of the Court House Saturday afternoon.

The new company will apply for incorporation papers in the amount of $3,000 and its purpose is to sell and ship livestock direct from the farmers to the markets, eliminating the middle man.

When the papers of incorporation are received, the Company will select a manager, whose duties it will be to handle stock shipments of all members of the company. Stock will be sold in the company for $1 a share, but as the organization is subsidiary to the Greene County Farm Bureau only Farm Bureau members can purchase stock. The stock being paid for out of the dues paid into the Farm Bureau, with no added expense to the buyer.

The livestock shipping plan has been tried successfully in other counties, according to Ford S. Prince, County Farm Agent, and thriving companies have been organized in Madison, Fayette, Clinton and other counties.

JAPAN IS KEEPING WATCHFUL EYE ON NEXT PRESIDENT

Tokio, Feb. 21.—When Senator Warren G. Harding becomes President Harding in March, his inauguration and its attendant activities will be watched with deepest interest by the leaders in the Japanese Empire. Of interest to all of the Powers, the inauguration of President-elect Harding, the announcement of his cabinet and the general outline of new policy will have a more than ordinary interest to Japan.

A political leader in Tokio recently commenting on what might be expected from the Republican administration by Japan and the Japanese said: "Contrary to the usual belief the leaders of Japan are not so regretful over the success of the Republicans. We are sure of one thing under the Republicans. We will at least know what their policy is, strong though it is likely to be. Frequently, in formulating our ideas here about certain things, we would take the course of the United States into consideration. And frankly, we have had reason more than once to be completely at a loss to know just what may be expected under the Wilson administration."

The tales of Harding connections with the Soviet, emphasized by the reports of the Vanderbilt leases in Kamchatka, have not been taken for their full value in Tokio. It was pointed out here recently that with the country Vanderbilt tells about frozen up a great part of the year, it would be folly to believe that business interests in the United States had backed the Soviet enterprise to such an unlimited extent.

The Tokio Government has been well pleased by the Wilson choice of Ambassador to Japan, and perhaps its great concern at the opening of the new administration is regarding the successor of Mr. Roland S. Morris as the representative of the United States in Tokio. Tokio openly favors Mr. Vanderbilt, who, it is stated, by some feels that the position of Japan has been improperly presented to the American people in some places. And the appointment of Mr. Vanderbilt as Ambassador would be one of the first acts by which the Harding administration might prove its good will toward Japan.

Then there is a group most noticeable among the publicists in general and Mr. Nakano, of the Tokio Jiron. Eastern Review, in particular, who call the Republicans meddlers, laying at the door of this great American political party many, many faults of which no party would be proud. Mr. Nakano, fortunately is not looked upon any too seriously by his own people.

THE WOMAN HE MARRIED

NAN'S ENTHUSIASM IS CHILLED

CHAPTER 96
"Wasn't Juanita lovely? And the whole affair wonderful?" I asked Dick as we walked home in the small hours. We had played bridge until 2 o'clock, then she had a dainty supper for us.

"Yes, it was very enjoyable." "And wasn't she beautiful?" I persisted.

"She looked very charming." I noted something in his voice as if he did not care to discuss her, but I thought him tired, or engrossed in his thoughts as he often was. His stories always gave him that excuse if excuse it were.

"I am going over to see that Mrs. Hibbard tomorrow," I ventured after a while. "She wants to talk about having her rooms refurnished."

"I shall be glad to get a large house to do. The more rooms the more money."

"Yes, of course." "And the more money the quicker we can have our house. We'll have a house-warming too when we get it all in order won't we?" I asked, warming to the subject. "I'll try to think up something different to do I'll have time enough even if we build right away."

"Yes, you'll have time enough." Just then we reached home, and Dick's remark that he wanted to jot down some ideas gave color to my feeling that his inattention to me and my talk of the house was due to some story forming in his mind. I was suspicious that anything affecting our future had influenced him.

I saw Mrs. Hibbard the next day and took the contract to refurnish her rooms as far as draperies, et cetera, went. She had wonderful rugs, and the painters would follow all my suggestions as to the walls.

Full of enthusiasm I hurried home to tell Dick. It would mean that we could get to work on the house immediately; also that we would not have to decorate piecemeal.

"I got it Dick!" I exclaimed rushing into his study, not seeing that Juanita was with him. "Yes, I did!" I added, trying to conceal my embarrassment that she had heard my exclamation.

"Got what?" Dick asked, while she said, "Hello, Nan!"

"Hello yourself! It was through you I met her, so I have to thank you."

"What are you talking about?" they both asked in unison.

"Mrs. Hibbard's house! I am to take entire charge of everything, as well as doing my part of the work. Isn't it glorious, Dick? Get the men to work tomorrow—we'll have our housewarming sooner than I thought!"

"What a lightening artist you are Nan! I am glad if you are pleased," Dick said, but so coldly I felt all my enthusiasm oozing out. Was he ashamed of me, to have me work to talk about it, rather, before Juanita? He had hinted to her once or twice that I was doing her bungalow simply as an accommodation. I was beginning to think I didn't understand my husband any more.

Dick had changed—that is, he had gone through several changes since we were married, but this last metamorphosis puzzled me, this indifference to things he before had appeared to think so vital.

Our troubles had been the cause of the first change, then his illness after that his effort to master an entirely new idea, that of writing, had accounted for much. But this intangible something—I could give it no name—that had come upon him of late seemed the greatest change of all.

Yet not in one thing could I explain just how he had changed. It was a tone, a look, a bit of indifference. That was all, unless it was his attitude toward Junior, now a big boy. He had been a bit severe with our son in some ways, especially when any question of morals or morality had been involved. Lately I had noticed that once or twice he had evaded the question with Junior, letting some statement go uncorrected which before he would not have allowed. I spoke of this once and Dick said:

"Junior is older now. He must judge, must learn to judge, what is right for him to do."

"Why—well, sometimes what is right for one, under certain conditions, is wrong for another, and vice versa."

"I suppose so. But don't you think him too young to differentiate?"

"No. He's old enough. Time he knew something of such things."

BUSY WEEK IS
FACED BY OHIO
STATE SOLONS

Legislation Will Be Speeded
Up For Inauguration.

TAX MATTERS UP
Senate To Give Consideration
To Griswold Resolution

Columbus, O., Feb. 21.—Preliminary to a week's recess, to permit Ohio legislators to attend the inauguration of President-elect Harding at Washington next week, the solons have a busy week mapped out for them today.

The senate is to give consideration to the Griswold debt limitation resolution and bill and the Taft bill providing suspension of the Smith one per cent tax act and affording temporary financial relief for cities. These measures passed the house last week.

The house labor committee is to conduct hearings on the Schimpfer bill providing for a minimum wage commission. The senate judiciary committee on Wednesday morning, is to hold a hearing on the McCoy bill providing for more rigid censorship of motion pictures, eliminating pictures showing crime. Tomorrow night, the house labor committee is to hold a hearing on the old age pension bill and the occupational disease bill and at a hearing on Wednesday morning, will consider the Muhleman bill authorizing an eight hour day and a 48 hour week for working women.

When the bill providing for abolition of annual and quadrennial registration of voters and substituting a single and continuous plan of registration is introduced this week, the committees on elections will immediately arrange for public hearings.

Then there are numerous relatively minor measures to be considered. Gov. Davis' citizens taxation committee is to resume its hearings today in an effort to determine upon recommendations to the legislature to be authorized as a basis for enacting permanent taxation legislation.

The committee's recommendations, it is believed, will be based either upon strict enforcement of the uniform rule of taxation or submission of a proposed constitutional amendment abolishing the uniform rule, placing a 1-1/2 per cent rate limit on real estate and providing that real estate shall pay either a direct or an income tax.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS
WILL IMPROVE SAYS
REPORT U. S. C. OF C.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Confidence that business conditions from now on will show a gradual improvement was expressed in a business review issued by the United States Chamber of Commerce. Prepared by Archer Wall Douglas, chairman of the chamber's committee of statistics and standards, the review stated "the most convincing evidence that we are on the high road to recovery is found in the universal report from every section of the country of steadily growing sentiment that 'business will be better in the spring.'"

RURAL CHURCH WILL BE TOPIC OF MEET

Columbus, Feb. 21.—About a dozen denominations are represented by the more than 50 delegates attending the inter denominational conference of Ohio church leaders opening here today to consider rural church needs. The conference held under the auspices of the Ohio federation of churches, will end Wednesday.

Rev. Robert E. Pugh, of the Presbyterian state headquarters, chairman of the executive committee, Ohio Federation of Churches, is presiding. Rev. B. F. Lamb, secretary of the federation will submit survey reports covering rural church conditions in 50 counties.

Pastors from Greene county who expect to attend the convention include: Rev. G. C. Foltz, Bowersville, M. P. Rev. W. A. Cooper, Jamestown, M. E. Rev. V. E. Busler, Cedarville, M. E.

ORPHEN GETS PENSION
Brussels, Feb. 21.—A pension of $400 a year has been granted to the orphaned daughter of General Lemah, defender of Liege when the Germans invaded Belgium in 1914. The battle of Liege was the first of the world war.

PRESIDENT WILSON AS HE LOOKS TODAY AND AS HE DID IN 1913

All who have seen Woodrow Wilson during the closing days of his eight years as President of the United States have observed the great change in his physical appearance, caused by the breakdown in health he suffered many months ago. The retiring President is far from the robust man he was when he first entered the White House in 1913. The picture, taken as he went into office, shows strength and vitality in every line of his strong features. Today he is far from being a well man, walking only a few steps with the aid of a cane and with features which show the great suffering he has endured in his illness. His most recent photograph was taken as he met with his Cabinet in the last few days of his administration.

WORKMEN CAUGHT UNDER
WRECKAGE OF BUILDING

Old Masonic Temple at Cleveland Collapses While
Wrecking is Going On Pinning Several Workers
Beneath it—One Known Dead.

Cleveland, Feb. 21.—One man is known to be dead, and it is feared that several others are buried under the mass of wreckage of the old Masonic Temple on Superior Ave., N. E. which collapsed shortly before 11 o'clock this morning.

While no bodies have yet been removed from the wreckage the body of Nate Soddovitch, a workman can be seen pinned beneath a mass of timber and brick.

The Cuyahoga Wrecking Company have been tearing down the building. Work of its demolition had reached the fourth story, the sidewalks of which were standing. The floors were piled with brick, mortar and other wreckage, and it is believed were overloaded by the workmen.

Officials of the company refuse to make an estimate of the number of injured, although police place the dead or seriously injured at from four to six.

Harding in Excellent
Shape to Tackle Duties

Three Cabinet Posts Are Yet Unfilled—Labor Award
Develops Into Grave Predicament With No
Candidate Now Available.

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 21.—Weeks of outdoor life until the semi-tropical sun of the south has put President-elect Harding in just perfect physical condition and he will enter upon his presidential duties ten days hence with a physique far stronger than enjoyed by many of his predecessors.

The result of his months exercise is plainly seen. He is deeply tanned by the sun, his step is more springy and he appears physically fit to undertake any strenuous task. For the remainder of his stay in Florida there will be no deviation from his system of exercising out doors at least half of the day.

Little if any progress was made by Mr. Harding over the week end in filling the three places in his cabinet that admittedly are still vacant. The president-elect's advisers said today that he is frankly in a quandary over the naval portfolio in particular. He has counted so strongly on this berth being filled by former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, that Lowden's refusal to be considered for any office has left the whole situation up in the air. A number of names are "under consideration"—John Hays Hammond probably being foremost. The same is true in a somewhat lesser degree of the labor and commerce positions. Herbert Hoover's status has not been determined definitely. A close personal adviser of the president-elect said today he considered Hoover's cabinet chances are "fifty-fifty."

The award of the labor portfolio has developed into a predicament of no small dimensions. A number of trades unions organizations are warring bitterly for the place and are putting forth insistent claims that this man or that man be chosen. Considerable opposition has grown up against candidacy of James J. Davis, a former labor leader and now head of the order of the Moose. The claim has been put forward by some labor leaders that Davis appointment could not be considered a "labor" appointment because Davis no longer is active in the ranks.

CHESS PLAYERS TO PLAY TOURNAMENT
STARTING MONDAY

Cleveland, Feb. 21.—Play in the annual championship tournament of the Ohio chess association will begin at 7 o'clock this evening at the rooms of the city club, under whose auspices the tournament is being conducted. Play will continue all day tomorrow, ending about midnight. Thus far twenty entries, the largest number ever to enter a state event, have entered. The tournament was to have been held in Youngstown but was transferred here owing to failure to perfect arrangements for the Youngstown meeting.

CONGRESS TURNS IN TO HOME STRETCH IN A
NECK AND NECK RACE WITH FATHER TIME

Washington, Feb. 21.—Congress turned into the home stretch today in a neck and neck race against time.

With but ten legislative days remaining before the present session ends, there was every indication today that some of the important legislation now on the way will never reach completion.

In the senate, the big task is the passage of appropriation bills, which already have been passed by the house. There are rumblings which forebode ill for some of these appropriation bills, particularly the naval appropriations bill.

The army appropriation bill, providing for reduced military forces will also be the subject of considerable debate and will retard any rapid progress by the upper body in disposing of the jam of legislation now steadily mounting.

SHERIFF ON TRAIL OF MURDERER OF
SCHOOL TEACHERS

Thinks Late Clew Will Lead
To Arrest Of Guilty Man.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 21.—Sheriff C. B. Stannard holds out hope this morning that the murderer of Misses Louise Wolf and Mabel Foote, Parma rural high school teachers, will be under arrest before noon today. "We have just found the most definite and tangible clue since the murder was committed," he declared. "I expect an important development, perhaps before noon."

So sure is the sheriff that he is at last on the right trail that late yesterday he called off a search planned for yesterday afternoon of the woods near the scene planned by more than 100 farmers resident of the townships. The mutilated bodies of the two teachers were found Thursday morning by school children. Clues thus far followed have proven worthless in revealing the identity of the criminals.

FEAR THREE DEATHS
CAUSED BY TYPHUS

Bradford, Pa., Feb. 21.—With three members of the family of Jesse Romanelli already dead and two others seriously ill, the board of health at Lewis Run is today taking every precaution to prevent the spread of the strange disease which it is feared is typhus fever. The third death was that of Stella, a 2-year old daughter, late last night. It is expected that county health officer W. A. Strander of Smithport will take charge of the situation and act for the state board of health. Quarantine regulations are being rigidly enforced at Lewis Run, which is a borough six miles from here.

"SATURDAY" BURGLAR CAUGHT IN DAYTON

Dayton, O., Feb. 21.—After robbing eight groceries and becoming known as the "Saturday night" burglar on account of the days of his activities, Henry Willet, colored, was arrested last night by the police. He had been recognized by John Ryan, grocer, where he pulled off a job Saturday night, shooting at Ryan, who flung a meat cleaver at him. He is a paroled Mansfield reformatory prisoner, having gone up after a gun battle with police when caught robbing a downtown cafe two years ago. Police say he admits six of the grocery robberies.

ORDER TO PROBE
REPORTS OF DEATH

Washington, Feb. 19.—The state department today cabled the American embassy at Mexico City and the American consul at Progreso, Mexico to investigate reports that D. Clarence Gibboney and party of Philadelphia, who were recently reported to have been drowned in Campeche bay during a storm may have met with foul play.

NEAR EAST SITUATION ALARMING;
ALLIES TO PUT SCREWS ON GERMANY

League Of Nations Council
Meets In Paris On Monday.

EXAMINE PROPOSALS

Impose Stranglehold On
Former German Territories.

Paris, Feb. 21.—A firm determination was apparent when the league of nations council met today to impose a stranglehold upon former German and Turkish territories thus preventing south American and Scandinavian neutrals from again attempting to bring up the terms of allied mandates when the league of nations assembly meets again in September.

This was one of two certain results that was foretold when the representatives assembled just before noon in the salon of the Petit Luxembourg palace. The other was that "open diplomacy" would receive the cold shoulder.

The original order of the day provided that the first business of the session should be the appointment of a committee to examine proposals for amendments to the league covenant, virtually all of which had been suggested during the assembly meeting in Geneva. Despite the program of business president DoCunha of the council informed the International News Service that there was a strong current of feeling among the delegates that the question of publicity should be taken up first and definitely settled. A resolution on the matter of publicity was before the council when it met, having been introduced at the assembly meeting in Geneva by Lord Robert Cecil representative of South Africa.

A canvass of the council representatives showed there is not the slightest disposition to hold public meetings of the council, except possibly stage-dressed affairs to approve decisions reached secretly. However, in deference to the delegates from the British dominions and sentiment prevalent in the United States the council likely will adopt a scheme whereby the formal communiqué will be augmented by informal statements from a member of the council at the end of each session. It would be his office to answer discreetly the interrogations of the newspaper correspondents.

Drafts of mandates, which in each case, will have been prepared by the interested mandatory power, probably will be approved with little change, although Dr. Wellington Koo, the youthful Chinese ambassador to Great Britain who is representing China on the council said he was going to register some objections against this procedure.

It is understood that Sir Robert Borden, delegate from Canada, has decided to accept the chairmanship of the committee on proposed changes in the covenant. These amendments include some that were put forward by Canada at Geneva, notably one to kill article X.

The other proposed amendments include one sponsored by the Scandinavian countries for the democratization of the league and one proposed by Argentina to admit Germany to the league forthwith and to take control of the league out of the hands of the allies giving this control to the "recognized powers" of the earth.

CAN'T SAVE SOULS
BY LAW DECLARES
BISHOP IN SERMON

Cleveland, Feb. 21.—"You cannot convert souls by law," declared Bishop W. A. Leonard, of the Episcopal Church yesterday in a sermon preached in commemoration of the birth of Washington. "We have heard much lately concerning the revival and reawakening of the blue laws. Many of them remain on the statute books, mute relics of an age, the extreme repression of which had proved their own inevitable undoing."

"Our special obligation is the insistence upon a common tongue as taught in the public schools; the insistence upon morals as indicated by the word of God, and the insistence upon what is termed as Americanization."

"We are in danger of losing our hold and grip upon convictions and of indulging ourselves in varying opinions."

Chicago, Feb. 21.—The scriptural adage about bread cast upon the water returning has a firm disciple here today in Jailer John I. Murphy.

While feeding prisoners in the detective bureau, Murphy slipped an extra chunk of bread to John Salaman, under arrest for wife desertion. Salaman was so grateful that he tipped Murphy off to a jail delivery plot which according to Salaman's story,

2 INTERNATIONAL
CONFERENCES HELD

Two international conferences of the first magnitude of importance are being held in London and Paris this week. Allied representatives met in London to discuss near east problems. The council of the league of nations met in Paris to consider mandates and proposals to amend the covenant of the league of nations. Some of the league delegates hold that this would be an auspicious time to amend the covenant to conform closer to America's ideas as President-elect Harding will come into office in two weeks. Another great allied conference to discuss indemnity and other German problems will open in London a week from tomorrow.

REVIVAL OF GERMAN
PROPAGANDA SEEN
BY AMERICAN LEGION

Bulletin Says Object Is To
Turn United States
Sentiment

Indianapolis, Feb. 21.—American Legion posts throughout the United States were asked last night by the Legion's National headquarters here to watch for a revival of German propaganda in this country.

The bulletin which was sent to national headquarters said the object of the propaganda seemed intended to turn American sentiment against the allies and to create "a powerful national political machine by the amalgamation of the disloyal elements in our population."

Mass meetings in New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Chicago, Milwaukee, Louisville, Omaha and Cleveland have been planned the bulletin said, as "one of the first national manifestations" of the propaganda campaign.

"There is come to the attention of the national headquarters information indicating a move or a nationwide revival of German propaganda activities in the United States which are the result of a carefully directed national campaign, the object of which seems to be:

"First, the disruption of the accord which exists between the United States and our allies, with particular reference to France and Great Britain by the turning of American popular sentiment against the governments of those countries and,

"Second, the methodical creation of a powerful national political machine by the amalgamation of the disloyal elements of our population and their elevation to a place of power in American affairs by the invisible influence of this organized minority."

BLIZZARD RAGES
OVER NEW ENGLAND;
STRIKES NEW YORK

Many Dead as Storm Sweeps
Out To Sea—Worst In
22 Years.

New York, Feb. 21.—Buried under a 12-inch blanket of snow, New York struggled to carry on business as usual today though traffic was partially blocked and much suffering was caused by the storm.

No less than ten deaths, scores of accidents, delayed trains and belated commuters were the net result. The storm, it is estimated, will cost the city about $1,000,000.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 21.—New England's worst blizzard in 22 years had swept out to sea today, leaving in its wake a death toll of several scores of craft piled on the coast, railroad and street car traffic demoralized and a mass of mangled telegraph wires and snow clogged roads.

CASTS BREAD UPON

involved the murder of Murphy himself.

Acting on information given by Salaman, Jailers searched the cell occupied by four of the most hardened criminals in the jail and found the bars almost cut through by saws that had been smuggled in.

Liberation of fifty prisoners in the detective bureau was to have been attempted early today, Salaman told the police, after the plotters had sawed through the bars, killed Murphy and opened the cells with his keys.

Allies Call Conference In London To Discuss
Plans.

ADMITTED SERIOUS

Turkish Question Worries
Allied Chiefs—"Deal"
May Be Arranged

London, Feb. 21.—The near east conference in London this week, when the allies will discuss measures to end the warfare in Anatolia, was regarded by many of the leading morning newspapers today as the "most important meeting since the peace conference in Paris."

The encroachments of the Russian soviet in the near east have added a grave new element of importance to the situation in that quarter of the world. Upon the eve of the assembling of the delegates word came from Constantinople that the Russians have overrun Georgia, setting up a red government at Tiflis, Armenia already had been overwhelmed. Now the path lies open for soviet armies to cross into old Turkey to join the Turkish nationalists.

The formal sessions will not begin until tomorrow but there were numerous conferences at Premier Lloyd George's official residence and at the foreign office to arrange preliminaries. The premier met representatives of the French Italian, Greek and Turkish delegations which have already arrived. The Kemalists or representatives of the Turkish national government at Angora are expected later in the day.

Attempt At Conciliation
The Greeks as well as the Allies will endeavor to reconcile the rival Turkish delegations before the conference opens tomorrow. The Turkish faction already on the ground resents the sultan's old government at Constantinople, which the nationalists have repudiated.

Members of the various delegations conferred among themselves, exchanging views upon the treaty of Sevres (the Turkish treaty) which may be modified. This treaty was signed while Premier Venizelos was in power at Athens. After the overthrow of the Venizelos government and the return of Constantinople as king, the allies prepared to modify the treaty. The Greek delegation came to London to make a strong fight against any revision of the treaty that would take away from the Hellenic kingdom territory allotted it from the old Ottoman empire.

It was learned from an authoritative source that probably no definite decision will be taken on the proposal to ratify the Turkish treaty but that the matter would be referred to a sub-committee for a decision later. All the interested parties would file briefs with this committee.

It is possible that a "deal" may be arranged between the two leading powers at the conference—Great Britain and France—by which Premier Lloyd George will meet some of Premier Briand's views as to Germany in return for which the French prime minister will consent to certain British claims regarding Turkey. The British have been the chief support of the sultan's government at Constantinople but the brunt of fighting against the nationalists has fallen on the Greeks.

MARION AUTHORITIES
HOLD MAN SUSPECTED

Marion, Feb. 21.—Robert Barnett, 21, who appears to be 25 and who is a Mormon, according to police Chief James W. Thompson, is being held in the county jail here as a suspect in the murder of two school teachers near Cleveland last week. Barnett bears the scars of deep scratches on his neck and face. He scratches are a quarter moon shaped and the police chief says they look as though they might have been made by the sharp nails of a woman. Barnett says he got them in a fight with four men in Toledo Monday night when he lost his coat and hat and walked to Caledonia, where, almost frozen, he was picked up by the village authorities.

CARDIFF HAS NO MARKET FOR COAL: SHIPS LIE IDLE

London, Feb. 21.—Cardiff, normally the greatest coal shipping port in the world, has been stricken by American and German competition until more than fifty ships lie idle alongside her docks, while the situation grows daily worse.

Cardiff is being cited in England as the telling example of what labor must do now to decrease its wages, if there is to be a revival of industries in Britain.

Briefly, its situation is this: A few months ago the continent, particularly in France and Italy, were crying for coal. Then when strike threatened exports were cut to increase local stocks. When the strike came, exports were stopped. When the national stoppage ended, Cardiff awaited to find that on the one hand German deliveries to France under the treaty had been in great volume and on the other that America had stepped in and supplied both France and Italy, with almost complete stocks for their needs.

Cardiff loses market. Cardiff was virtually without a market. Coal could not be sold abroad as the quotations set for export coal. Far-off America could figuratively "carry coals to Newcastle," or undersell the greatest coal port in the world practically on her own doorstep.

During the same time America, due to the slashing of prices and in some degree to lessening of wage charges, virtually stole the Canadian tinplate market from the Welsh plants.

And Belgium, which was the first of the European nations to start in earnest to reconstruct its industries, came to the field of iron and steel. Belgium can deliver steel bars in Swansea at roughly $52 a ton, against an English manufacturing cost of $88. Cardiff's hinterland manufactures tin plate and steel product, and produces coal. For none of these can it find a foreign market.

Striking figures are being given also as to shipping costs. It is estimated that the daily cost of operation of a 6,000-ton tramp in 1905 was $66 in 1913 was $100 and today is $540. Cardiff has a million tons of shipping which cannot be operated at a profit and a vast amount of it cannot be operated at all, for there is nothing to be carried.

Labor War Coming. Cardiff sees no way out except lower production costs, which must come through lower wages. Labor throughout not only Wales but the whole of the British Isles is cut for a fight to a finish against general wage reductions.

Labor argues that industrial rehabilitation will come through raising the standard of living, through increase of workers' opportunities to buy.

There is a deadlock of industrial theories. It probably will continue for months. Meanwhile Cardiff takes on the appearance of Pittsburgh in a panic year.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums so do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

SCHOOL BILL WILL CHECK JUVENILE CRIME IS BELIEF

The Bing bill relating to compulsory attendance now before the legislature should prove a check on the wave of juvenile crime which is now sweeping over the country, according to school authorities.

Superintendent C. A. Waltz says of it: "Along with other school superintendents, I am highly in favor of the bill. The bill is in connection with school attendance is especially needed at this time when the industries are taking the pupils away from education when it is needed the most. The bill has my hearty endorsement and there is no doubt as to its success."

School authorities, truant officers and probation officers claim that the present laws are ineffective. The Bing bill changes the laws relating to girls only slightly, but sets the same requirements for boys as for girls, requiring them both to attend school until 16 years old. At 16 they may work but if they do not get a position they will be required to stay in school until 18.

The Bing bill requires the same amount of schooling for country children as is now required for city children. No child will be excused from school to go to work until he has received age and schooling certificate. The school term in every school district shall not be less than 32 weeks. But children under 16 will be allowed to work outside of school hours and during the summer vacation, if they can pass physical examination.

To enforce school attendance in country districts the bill provides for the employment of a full time attendance officer, replacing the many part-time truant officers now employed by local boards.

In communities where there are as many as 25 children between 16 and 18 years with work certificates, when in a radius of three miles, the bill requires the establishment of part time continuation school. Twenty Ohio cities have already established such schools. Employers claim that the children are more valuable at their work because of the vocational training.

A committee of school experts has spent a year in drafting the bill. It has been approved by the leaders of the Grange, the Farm Bureau the State Federation of Labor, the Ohio Manufacturers' Association, the State Teachers Association and the Parent-Teachers Association.

Superintendent Waltz has received a letter from State Superintendent Vernon Regil, which stated that the House Schools Committee has reported in favor of the bill. Information has been received also by Mr. Waltz that the Wenner bill in connection with physical education in the schools of the state has been unanimously endorsed by the Schools Committee. A bill has also been introduced to repeal the teacher's pension fund, but no action has been taken upon it.

The Fares bill recently introduced in the House has been reported for passage. The bill is in favor of the election of County Superintendents instead of the present system of District Superintendents, has been accepted favorably.

OWNERS OF LOTS IN DODD'S ADDITION TO HOLD MEETING

The formation of a temporary organization will probably be effected at a meeting of all owners of lots in the Dodds addition, which will be held in the commission chamber Tuesday evening at seven o'clock.

The meeting has been called to bring up the question of the improvements on the lots guaranteed at the time of the purchase, during the real estate auction last spring, and the question of what to do with the gravel pit which is now situated in the property.

A large number of the lots were sold with improvement guarantees, it is said, which have not yet been fulfilled, and at this meeting the lot owners hope to reach some agreement on these improvements. City Manager Kenyon Riddle has been asked to meet with the body, and it is thought that plans for the city improving the streets and property along with other improvements will be discussed.

Sidewalks, curbs and gutter, grading and gravelled streets, were promised the purchasers at the time of the sale. Part of these sidewalks and gutters, only, have been established.

STORK POSTPONES TRIAL IN COURT

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 21.—"I don't know whether it will be a boy or a girl, but I have to excuse the jury and call off the trial for the day," said Judge Webster Thayer in Superior Court. "The Wife of District Attorney Edward T. Esty, is at the hospital. We expect glad tidings at any hour."

Spectators smiled when they learned the unusual cause of adjournment of the trial of Oscar and Hugo Willgerodt, father and son, jointly charged with arson in the setting of the Slater Building fire.

SCHOOL NOTES

In the past month Central High has been honored by two important speakers, Mr. Southwick, who spoke on "Signs" and Rev. Van Kirk, of Youngstown, designer of the famous World's flag which was accepted with honors at the peace conference and which will be the banner of the League of Nations. Rev. Van Kirk's topic was "The League of Nations" and at the conclusion of his address buttons, pamphlets and stamps to help the League of Nations cause, were sold. The flag designed by the speaker was also displayed.

The public is promised a fine evening's amusement Tuesday night when Judge Baggot of Dayton, and his clever assistant, appear in an entirely new playlet, "Out of Court." High school girls are selling tickets and the admission price to the public is 75 cents, with no seats reserved. Judge Baggot is well known here having appeared in one of his humorous sketches at the Masonic Club last fall.

The Washington's birthday program which previously was an important topic is now lacking in interest. The various other enterprises, the "Up to the Minute Week," Junior Class Play and the Review entertainment have all been the centers of attraction for the students.

CHURCH PRESENTS PASTOR WITH A CAR ON SATURDAY

The gift was made by the congregation as a token of the esteem in which its members hold their pastor, who in his service as minister of the Second Church has become intensely popular with those he came in contact with.

Rev. Proudfoot did not occupy the pulpit at the services Sunday morning, Dr. J. H. Webster, former Xenian, of the faculty of the Xenia Theological Seminary at St. Louis, delivering the morning sermon. An interesting feature of the services was that Dr. J. G. Carson and Dr. J. G. C. Webster of College Corner, took part in the services, all being relatives of Dr. Webster.

MARRIAGE CEREMONY PERFORMED IN ROAD

Cadiz, Ohio, Feb. 21.—A marriage in a roadway took place near here.

As a result, Mrs. Edna Shissler, of Deersville, became the bride of James B. Gallagher, a Tippecanoe rural free delivery carrier.

County Commissioner Sepler used his car to take the bridegroom to Deersville, where they were joined by Mrs. Shissler. After getting Rev. Mr. Firth, of the Presbyterian Church, they drove here and obtained the marriage license.

Enroute home the couple decided to commence their wedded life immediately.

The car stopped in front of the Harrison County Children's Home, the minister read the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher rode home.

HORSES ACCOMPLISH WHAT AUTOS FAILED TO DO IN COLORADO

Grand Junction, Col., Feb. 21.—The truck horse may be obsolete in the East, but Grand Junction city officials claim that the real old-fashioned "horse-power" has proved more efficient than any tractor or automobile horse power to be found locally.

The city wanted to move its five-ton rock crusher from the river bed to a location across town and had to use skids to sled the machine. A forty horse power tractor, aided by several automobiles was unable to budge the heavy crusher, but six powerful horses were attached to the crusher and snaked it through the streets, although the asphalt was melted in spots under the great weight.

WOMAN UNCONSCIOUS FOR SEVERAL DAYS

The condition of Mrs. Frank Conside who has been ill at her home on Linn and Miller Avenues for several weeks, is reported critical. Mrs. Conside is thought to be suffering from sleeping sickness, and has been unconscious for several days.

OBITUARY

"You may crush, may break the vase if you will. But the sweetness of the roses, remain with us still."

On the first day of August, 1920, there came to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Huston, a darling baby boy, Elbert Darrol.

But God in his loving providence saw fit to remove this beautiful little life, and on February 12, 1921, Elbert fell asleep in Jesus, aged 6 months, and 12 days.

The angel messenger gently came in silence, with her rustling, silken, wings carried the little rose from its mother's breast, transplanted it in its heavenly crib, where suffering is no more.

The first few weeks of little Elbert's life had been frail, but to the delight of his fond parents, had seemingly grown stronger.

Sad it seems that life should be cut so short when youth offers so many opportunities and promises, but they are most blessed who, with pure hearts and unsullied minds, thus escape the many snares and sins that are hard for the young.

But, oh what a relief to our broken hearts when we read those precious words, "Of, such is the kingdom of heaven."

Elbert leaves to mourn his loss, with bleeding hearts, Father, Mother and one Brother, Cecil, a number of relatives and friends.

Baby Elbert thou hast left us, And thy loss we deeply feel; But 'tis God that hath bereft us, He can all our sorrows heal.

A Friend.

Mathias W. Gerard, the son of George and Elizabeth Gerard was born on the 28th day of July, 1846, and departed this world February 14, 1921, having lived 80 years, 6 months and 16 days. He was married to Elizabeth A. Cline November 22, 1860. To this union two sons were born, William L. and David L., who are well known in their home town-ship and who cared faithfully for Father through his long sickness, doing all that loving hands could do.

Besides his two sons, three grandchildren and five great grandchildren, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ellen Cline and a brother Isaac, the brother living on an adjoining farm and the sisters near by. He is also survived by two half sisters, Mrs. W. Madison Cline near Gunnersville, Mrs. D. E. Johnson of Cedarville and a half brother Lewis Gerard of Jamestown.

Mr. Gerard has always been a peaceable farmer never bringing anyone in, or being in court himself. He spent all his life on a farm within this neighborhood; in fact the home spirit is a characteristic of the whole family. The brother, half brother, sisters, half sisters, children and grandchildren all live near the old home.

Mr. Gerard has lived a moral life, and has always supported the M. E. Church of which his wife was a member. His going marked the departure of a pioneer soul that will be greatly missed.

“WHO’S WHO IN AMERICA.”

Do you know about this publication? If not, you ought to, for it is one of vital importance. It is a Biographical Dictionary of notable living men and women of the United States. In one sense we suppose it is synonymous to publications in almost all countries giving the names of the most important personages of these countries—as for instance the titles of royalty. But in another sense too it is quite different, for the leading idea in our “Who’s Who” is the names of persons who have “done something worth while,” which often cannot be said of those others.

Our “Who’s Who” was started over twenty years ago, a new volume being issued every second year, so that the present one is Volume II—and as a consequence the size of the books have greatly increased during this time. The books are about the “fattest” published—one 7½ inches tall by 3½ inches thick—and containing over 3000 pages.

Arbitrarily certain names go in—as for instance members of Congress, members of the Cabinet, all U. S. Judges, all Governors of States, all our Ambassadors and Ministers to foreign countries, etc. But beyond this, you will have had to do something worth while to entitle you to a place in “Who’s Who.”

Coming under this latter class, besides Congressman Fess, we find in this last volume of “Who’s Who” the names of but seven Greene County, Ohio, people, as follows: W. R. McChesney, President of Cedarville College; O. E. Bradfute, Cattle Breeder; Charles W. Drees, Missionary; Jesse Johnson, Theologian; Joseph Kyle, Theologian; Findley Torrence, Author, and Joseph E. Wisheart, Clergyman. Only 8 names in a volume of over 23,000 sketches.

The sketches average about what would be three to four inches in length in an ordinary newspaper. As a sample, we give one, that of Mr. O. E. Bradfute, of our county, as follows:

Oscar Edwin Bradfute, cattle breeder; born near Cedarville, Ohio, January 21, 1862; son of David and Martha E. (Collins) Bradfute; degree B. A. by Ind. U., 1884; married Jennie M. Collins of Xenia, Ohio, August 10, 1890; breeder of Aberdeen-Angus cattle since 1887; head of firm O. E. Bradfute and Sons; an organizer Int. Live Stock Exposition at Chicago, 1899, and still member board of directors; member White House Industrial Conference, October, 1919; lecturer at Agri. Colleges and State Farmers’ Meetings; Trustee Ohio Ag. Exp. Station; Trustee Ohio State U.; member Phi Delta Theta; Democrat; member U. P. Church; home, Xenia, Ohio, Rural No. 5.

Just now, when President-elect Harding has been interviewing so many prominent men, we are all interested in knowing all about them, and as “Who’s Who” gives us this information, in a condensed form, it has been in great demand. But, in fact, those who have been having “Who’s Who” for years, hardly feel able to keep house without it, so many occasions seeming to make it almost as essential as the dictionary.

Of the making of books there is said to be no end, and here is our testimony that “Who’s Who” has been a source of advantage to us for many years.

NEITHER CONGRESS NOR THE COUNTRY IS MUCH AGITATED.

Congressional circles do not take very seriously the proposed impeachment of Judge Kenesaw Landis, federal judge and baseball dictator.

They do not for the reason that the two members of congress gunning for the fiery federal judge are both Democrats who go out of office March 4. While they are getting large gobs of publicity out of their attacks on the judge at this moment, their period in the limelight ends inside of three weeks. They become private citizens then and what a private citizen may think or say about a federal judge attracts the minimum of attention compared with the spotlight it draws when charges are made from the floor of congress.

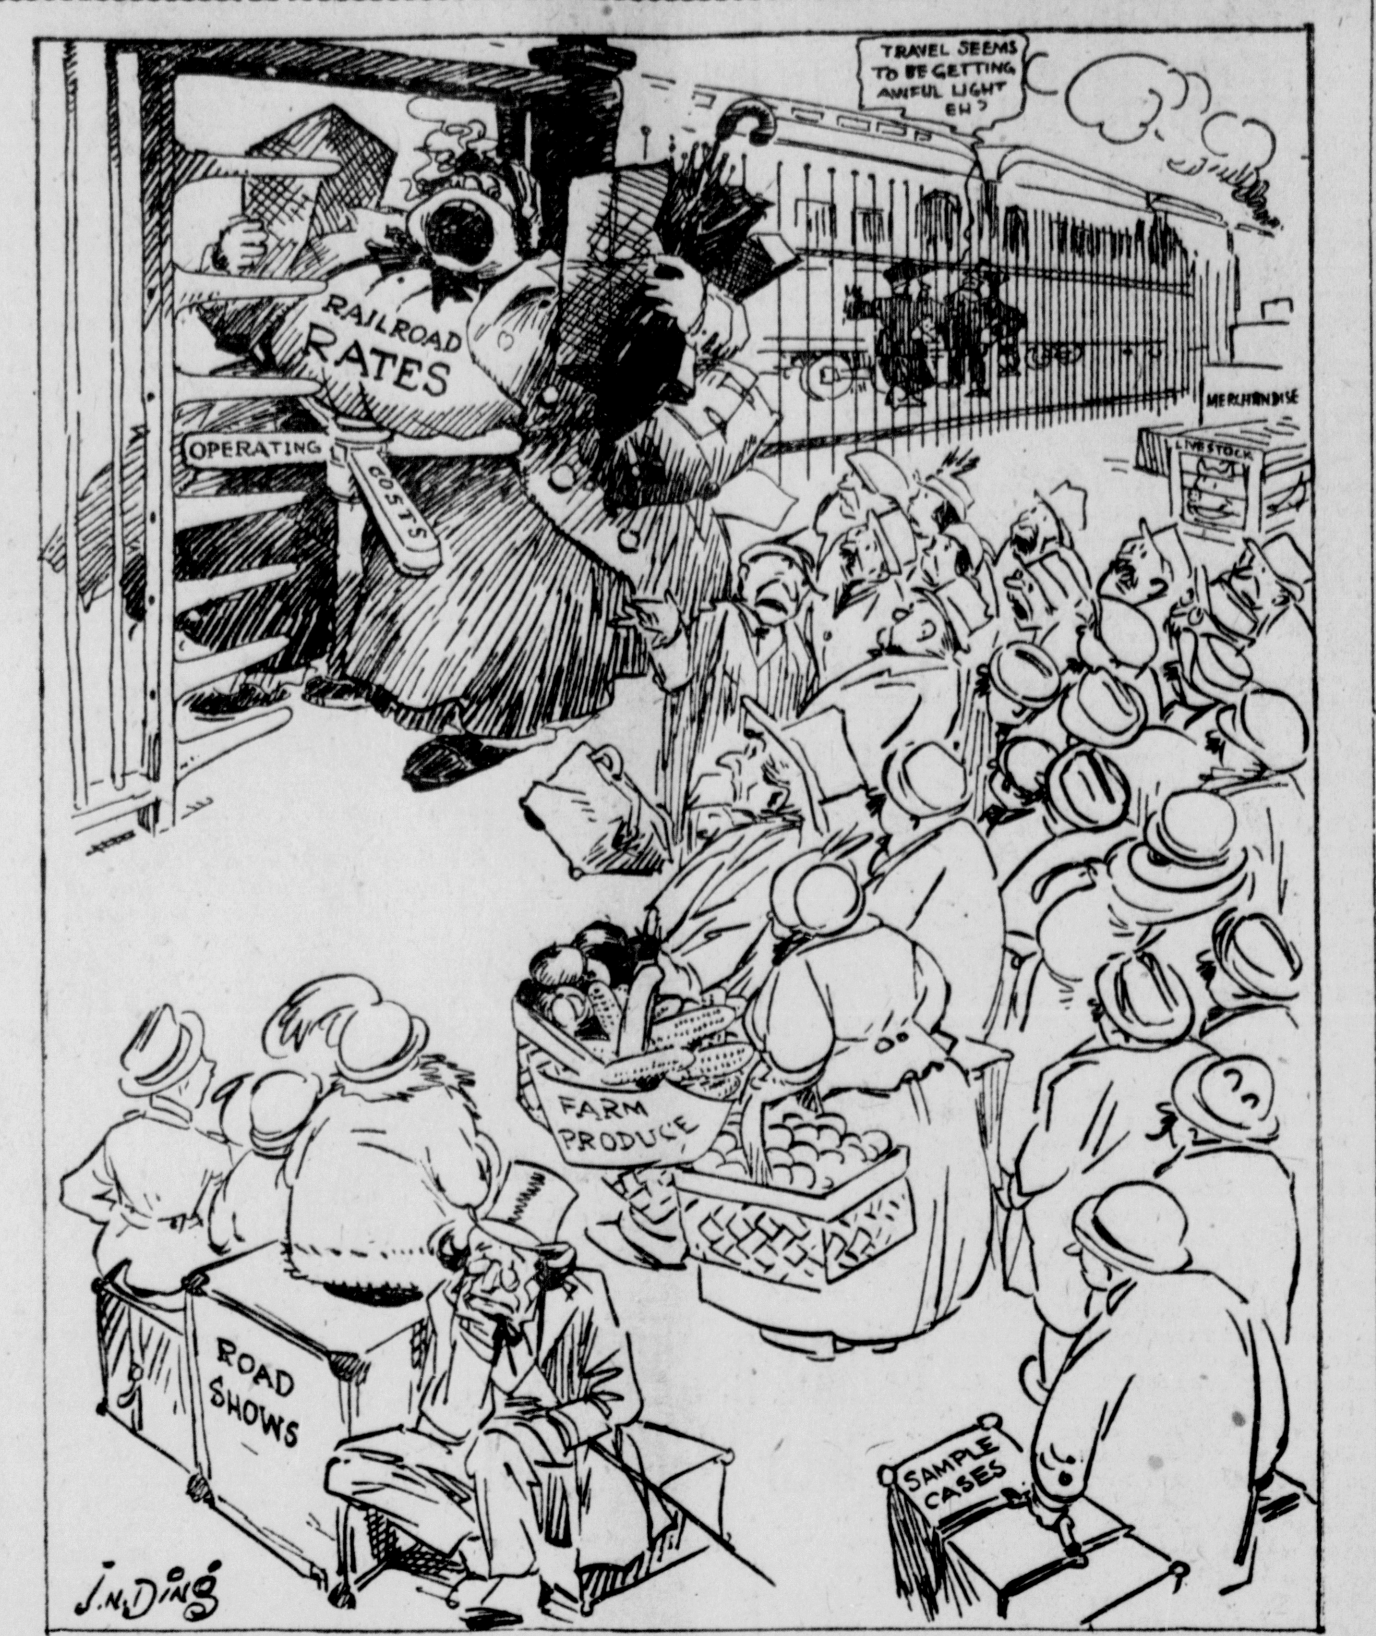

The controversy between Judge Landis and Senator Dial and the formal impeachment charges preferred against the judge by Representative Welty of Ohio are two separate and distinct affairs. The only difficulty the Senator is in when he talks about impeaching Judge Landis is that he hasn’t authority to do it. Impeachment proceedings must start in the house. The senate acts only as the trial court after formal charges have been voted by the house. So that while Dial can speak as much as he pleases and denounce Landis as fulsomely as he desires, he is out of luck on impeaching. All he can do is to get some house member to start proceedings.

Senator Dial is a new comer to the senate, chosen only to fill an unexpired term. He is a rockribbed conservative, and seldom speaks except on cotton. Occasionally he has taken a crack at labor unions. But Dial’s chief trouble, until he got in this controversy with Landis, was to “raise hob” with the cotton exchange and talk on the cotton situation. He has not been a prominent member.

Welty, in the house, who brought the impeachment proceedings on the baseball allegations, has been an inconspicuous member. He was defeated for re-election. The attack he has made against Judge Landis brought him more notoriety than he had attained before in the house.

The history of impeachments before congress is that many are started, but few are brought to a conclusion. Some member gets riled at some public official. He tries to oust him in every other way. And failing then he resorts to impeachment, which makes necessary a hearing. The member rises, makes formal charges upon his oath as a member, and they go to the judiciary committee. Examination of the records of congress show that bulk of the impeachments stop right there in the committee. This safeguard against impeachment is resorted to, else the congress would be doing little else except trying grievances against public officials.

KARL CZERNY

February 21, 1791

Everyone who has ever studied the piano or who has taken even a few piano lessons is familiar with the name of Karl Czerny, who wrote an extraordinary number of five fingered exercises and studies to give the pupil smoothness and speed, as well as accuracy in playing.

Karl Czerny was born in Vienna in 1791, the son of a piano teacher. The boy showed talent for music, that under his father’s training, he performed in public at nine and at 14 was able to support himself by teaching. He came under the observation of Beethoven who took him for a pupil, and did him the great honor to select him to be the first to play Beethoven’s celebrated “Emperor Concerto” in public.

He soon became the most popular teacher in a capital which at that time was full of first rate musicians. Franz Liszt was one of his many famous pupils. As a composer he did an extraordinary amount of work, for at the time of his death, his compositions numbered 849. Musicians say that comparatively few of them possess great merit and none disclose any genius.

But he was very skillful in composing works that would increase the ability of the pupil and his various studies for the piano and his elementary and advanced exercises have probably had a wider circulation than any other works of their class.

Czerny died in 1857, and having no family, left his large fortune to charity.

From the way they are grading and graveling the Rapid Traction road bed from here to Dayton, it doesn’t look very much like that line was going to be torn up soon, even if the much-talked-of consolidation does take place.

Several gangs of workmen are busy along the line right along. Miss Kate Langan, who has been on the sick bed for the past week was able today to resume her duties at the Spahr dry goods store.

Preparations are being made at the workhouse for installing the new departure in the matter of contract labor. The new addition to the building has been completed and the work of putting down the cement floor in the new cell block will be finished soon. The old cells will be taken out and the room now occupied by them will be used for the dining room. There will be forty new cells.

The work between Springfield and Yellow Springs of the new electrical line has been completed and the men are now working toward Xenia. John Martin says that the road will be one of the finest in the state. A dozen fine cars have been ordered eight of them being 48 feet in length and costing $9500 each. The road will be built the entire distance between Springfield and Xenia and over a private right of way. It is Mr. Martin’s idea to so equip the road that a speed of 60 miles an hour can be made over it.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am nineteen years of age and am deeply worried. I lost my mother some time ago and as I am the oldest I have to keep house for my father and five sisters. The youngest is five years of age.

My father is harsh and cruel to me at times and has often told me to go and never come back, but the little children are so dear to me I cannot bear to leave them now. Some people tell me to go. Please advise me what to do.

I don’t get half the clothes other girls have and so some people tell me to leave home because of that. But as I am decent I do not care to have people constantly running me down.

I have a cousin and she is always talking about me to my sister, who tells me the things back. I cry myself to sleep many nights and think some day I will see better times. I go to dances and am always in a nice, decent place, but my cousin always runs me down. I always go with nice girls. I am good to the children and every one.

I have no boy friends. Will you please tell me a way that I can get some boy friends? I get lonesome at times and hardly know what to do. How can I entertain a boy when I am with one?

It seems to me that you have a work before you which you cannot leave. For four or five years I think you should stay with the children. If your father remains hard to live with, you can go at that time with a clear conscience, passing on your work to some other sister. Right now, however, your little sisters need loving care which a housekeeper would not give them.

Clothes mean so much to a young girl that it seems a shame you cannot have more when you give so much of yourself to the home. I can see, however, that your father has quite a task providing for five girls. Perhaps in a year or two one of your sisters will be working, at which time she should pay board and the money should go to you. It is no small sacrifice for a girl to give up her own interests in order to keep house in a motherless home. Your sisters should be taught to help you in every way possible. Unless you give them their tasks, too, they will take advantage of you and expect you to overwork and sacrifice so that their lives will be easier.

In regard to boys, be yourself and use your imagination. Most boys like to be entertained and when they find a good talker who draws them out on subjects of interest to them they think she is wonderful. Read and observe so that you will be wide awake and intelligent as a conversationalist and as a listener. I cannot tell you how to get boy friends. Such a matter can never be forced. If you are friendly and interesting they will just naturally like you and want to be with you.

I believe your sister is wrong in telling you the unkind things your cousin says. Tell your sister that in the future you would rather remain ignorant of such things.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a boy twenty years of age and have been corresponding with a girl nineteen years of age. This girl has been talking love and she wants to be engaged. I like her, but I do not feel as she does. What can I say?

Write to the girl and tell her that you know you are too young to do anything so serious and you think she is. Say that you want her as a friend only.

AIR POLICE FORCE TO BE ORGANIZED BY FRANCE SOON

Paris, Feb. 21.—Following the example set by New York police, Minister Pierre Flaudin, before he quit the Aviation Ministry during the Leygues Cabinet had laid plans that France might also have its air police.

He also drew customs formalities for aeroplanes and marked off given places at which foreign flying machines should penetrate France. Special landing fields with customs officials were also specified. All machines coming to France will be called upon to land at these fields and declare any goods which they might be carrying and if necessary, pay duty.

The new Minister for Aviation intends to carry out M. Flaudin’s program and possibly amplify it.

THE HARDEST TEST.

I try to bear life’s many ills with fortitude and grit; if I am pale around the gills, the fact I won’t admit. I still attempt to smile and sing when burdened down by care; the smile may be a ghastly thing, but still you’ll find it there. I’ve smiled when joints seemed all afire with fierce rheumatic pain; I’ve smiled when I must change a tire in darkness, mud and rain. I’ve smiled when agents sold me stock in mines that didn’t pay, and when I slid around a block, upon a slippery day. I’ve smiled beneath misfortune’s whacks, and raised no doleful din; but when I pay my income tax, I don’t attempt a grin. There is a time to preach and dance, as wise apostles say, and there’s a time to whoop and prance, and chortle and be gay; but he is in discretion lax, or else he’s full of guile, who pines up his income tax, and wears a cheer-up smile. His smile may reach from ear to ear, it even may be twins, but none can feel he is sincere, that he means what he grins. “There’s some fell purpose in his mirth,” beholders will agree; “for no white man upon the earth can pay this tax with glee. The coin we toiled so hard to get, in pain defying words, our Uncle Samuel will get—and throw it to the birds. And so no man of purpose high, no man who earns the bones, can pay that tax without a sigh, without a brace of groans.”

THE VALUE OF COLD

It is well known that the women of cold countries have marvelously fine grained complexions and that as a general thing they do not grow old as soon as the women of warmer countries. This is due to the value of the cold climate they live in. Cold is astringent—it draws up the pores, it brings the blood to the face, making the complexion rosy, and it does away with much of the tendency towards lax muscles and wrinkles after middle age.

But most of us live in a change-

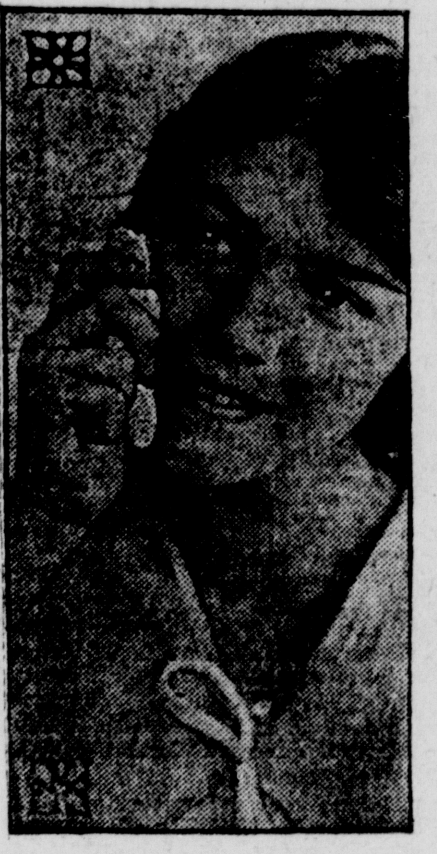

the summer, however, when the skin will be a little too oily and in that case you can rub the face with ice and not bother with the massage.

It is really amazing how a five or ten-minute ice rub a day will rejuvenate the complexion. The skin should be thoroughly cleansed first with soap and water and then a little cold cream should be rubbed in and wiped off with soft cloth. The ice massage should follow. It will smooth out wrinkles close up coarse pores, bring blood to the face, harden weakened muscles. It will make your skin soft and fine and glowing. If you have a double chin you can massage off most of the superfluous flesh by rubbing with ice, without, however, the preceding cold cream massage.

Weekly Market Review

Stocks
Conditions affecting the stock market have not changed appreciably and dullness and uncertainty will mark the trading, in all probability, until the month-end. The market has withstood bad news very well and seems uninfluenced by the minor currents of opinion and misinformation. Stagnation in February is seasonal. The professional element will govern the movement of prices. No reaction is probable, as the market is well liquidated. It may soon begin to discount measured of the new administration and favorable developments in business. Wall street loans are only half the amount normally outstanding. Money eases slowly, but each month brings perceptible improvement.

Grain
Opinion in the grain market is mixed and subject to rapid changes. Most traders are reluctant to commit themselves decidedly on either side. Some corn is going for export and large receipts are not expected. Corn stocks are large—much larger than last year—and deter heavy country loadings. The wheat visible is smallest within two score years, barring exceptions. Further reduction is likely. Milling demand shows some improvements. Receipts of crops damage will increase their influence as weeks go by and may start a decisive upward movement before long. The visible supply of oats is not burdensome. The necessities of spring planting are apt to start a liquidating movement, which would offset in part the influence of such constructive developments as the next month may bring.

Livestock
The livestock market retains its previous character. Large receipts almost invariably produce indigestion and demoralization. When even a short respite the market revives. Hogs are the most stable of all livestock. Stocker trade is at low ebb, owing to money stringency and recent low prices in fat cattle. Hides are lifeless, as heretofore. The spread between corn and hogs stimulates feeding and creates a demand for light stuff. Farmers are watching to see whether prices will rise or hogs fall in prices. Highest prices for hogs are usually paid in August and September, according to the department of Agriculture and lowest in December and January. Receipts are one of the chief governing influences.

Cotton
The statistical position of cotton is mostly bearish. January consumption exceeded Dec. by 71,400 bales, reports the Census bureau, but fell way below consumption of a year ago. Exports were less than in December. Total consumption this season to February 1 is only 2,333,000 bales, as against 3,139,000 bales a year ago. Cotton stocks at New York and in the south are depressingly large. The total in public storage and compresses is nearly 2,000,000 bales larger than last year. On the other hand, mill supplies of raw cotton the world over are deemed small. Foreign exchange is consistently firm and various schemes to finance exports are making headway. The number of active spindles increased during January. Farm work in the south is backward, fertilizer sales are reported small, and the movement to reduce acreage is being pushed with considerable vigor.

Wool
The prospect of a higher tariff and firmness in exchange are the two strongest constructive factors in the wool market. Demand centers on fine and fine medium grades. Importations have been heavy and Americans were active buyers at recent foreign auctions. Foreign arrivals at Boston in a single week totalled nearly 4,000,000 pounds. Prices show a slight tendency to strengthen.

Metals
Extreme dullness persists in the iron and steel trade, notwithstanding some inquiries. Price cutting has not tempted any substantial amount of business. Copper is developing a firmer tone in view of the financing project whereby the large surplus will be in part held off the market. Non-ferrous metals share the dullness which pervades the iron and steel industry.

Agriculture
Agricultural producers may expect increasing pressure from the banks coincident with the usual spring demand for credit accommodation. Many bankers, especially those in regions where the holding movement has been most pronounced, will loth to extend new loans while other loans made on the old crop are still unpaid. The farmer will need money for seed, fertilizer, labor, and other items of cost which figure in spring planting, and will in many instances be forced to liquidate a part of his holdings in order to obtain further credit at the bank.

Various special credit measures are proposed to aid the farmer in his present difficulties. The senate on Feb. 11 adopted an amendment to an appropriation bill authorizing the Treasury department to purchase $100,000,000 worth of Federal Farm loan bonds in order to provide credit for the farmers. Farm organization and labor leaders predict the advent of credit union banks for workingmen and farmers. How large a percentage of farm leaders favor this type of institution is a question. Thus far the farmer-labor cooperative movement has made little concrete progress.

The copper financing plan with its $40,000,000 issue of securities suggests the adoption of a similar plan by the cotton growers, the wool growers, and possibly other farm producers. New York financial interests would be less inclined to support the agricultural producers than the copper companies, partly because copper is a less perishable commodity than grain or wool and is less subject to violent price fluctuations.

The farmers of the middle west are winning commendation for their generous willingness to donate 50,000,000 bushels of corn to the starving population of China and Europe. This corn has a market value, although it has depreciated greatly, and is the equivalent of a considerable gift in money, aside from the labor required to deliver it. The American farmer is again proving himself a world provider—in times of want as well as times of plenty.

The loss sustained by livestock revealed by figures of the department of agriculture which show that the farmers have suffered more acutely in deflation than any other class. Beef cattle on the farms lost in average value per head all they had gained during the period of active by this country and half as much again. The average price of cattle other than milk cows was $44.22 in 1919 and $31.41 in 1921. Swine lost 88 percent of the gain during the years 1919 and 1920. Corn lost more than its war gain.

WIDOWS AWARDED COMPENSATION BY INDUSTRIAL BODY

Mrs. Vera Simpson and Mrs. Ruth Fisher, wives of Captain G. H. Simpson and Carl Fisher, aviators who were lost when their plane fell in the Mississippi river near Tiptonville, Tenn., January 1, have been awarded $5,000 compensation each, by the state industrial commission.

The commission established a precedent in this case by awarding the maximum amount on purely circumstantial evidence. The men were employees of the Dayton-Wright Company and were selected to pilot the hydroplane to Miami, Fla., five miles south of Tiptonville, the plane turned over and plunged into the Mississippi river. The wrecked machine was recovered in 18 feet of water but bodies of the two aviators have not been recovered and it is believed that they have been swept into the gulf of Mexico.

Depositions of the testimony of three residents of Tiptonville who saw the accident were taken, and the claims granted upon this evidence. Xenia relatives of Carl Fisher, attended the joint memorial services held for the two men at the gospel center, Third and Ludlow street, Sunday afternoon. The services were in charge of Rev. J. H. Dutton.

PROMINENT NEW YORK MAN PRAISES TANALAC

John F. Hyatt, of Albany N. Y., Is Relieved of Severe Attack of Rheumatism of Many Years' Standing.

JOHN F. HYATT
227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y.

"I am now seventy two years old and am just getting rid of fifteen-year case of rheumatism that had me so crippled up I could not walk," said John F. Hyatt, 227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y., in relating his remarkable experience with Tanlac, recently. Mr. Hyatt was chairman of the committee in charge of building the Albany County court house and was four times elected a member of the County Board of Supervisors. At present Mr. Hyatt is Assistant Superintendent of the Albany County court house, with office in the building.

"I don't believe," he continued, "anybody could have rheumatism any worse than I did, and my case was of such long standing I didn't expect to ever get over it. I was unable to walk except for a short distance, supported with a cane, and even then the pains struck me every time I took a step. My legs, hips and ankles hurt something awful and my joints were stiff and aching. I couldn't cross my legs without having to lift it up with my hands, and to turn over in bed, why, the pains nearly killed me. My appetite was gone, and the sight of food nauseated me. My stomach was out of order, and I had a sluggish, heavy feeling all the time. I was weak, off in weight and discouraged so that it looked like I might as well quit trying to ever get well."

"I had no idea Tanlac would relieve my rheumatism when I began taking it last Spring. I took it because I saw where it would give a fellow an appetite. Well, sir, I was the most surprised I ever was in my life when the rheumatic pains began to ease

up. I took seven bottles in all and, it's a fact, I didn't have an ache about me, was eating fine and simply felt like I had been made over again.

"I have been in the best of health ever since, with only a slight twinge here and there, but no more of the rheumatism at intervals. I do not need my cane now, but I had been unable to walk without it for several years, I got into the habit of carrying it and so still take it along. I am enjoying life and health once more and can conscientiously recommend Tanlac as the greatest medicine I have ever run across in all my experience."

Tanalac is sold in Xenia by Sayre & Hemphill; in Yellow Springs by A. Emley; Bowersville, N. K. Bower; Fairfield, Paul P. Young; Osborn, C. J. Logsdon; New Burlington, W. C. Smith.

Crimped

Here is the 4-leaf blend: Choice heart leaf of Kentucky Burley; tender leaves of aromatic Macedonian tobacco; golden Virginia; and cool-burning Maryland. It's the perfect blend!

The edges of Spur's satiny, imported paper are "crimped" together by a patented machine. This does away with paste.

The result is an even-drawing slower-burning cigarette.

EFFECT ORGANIZATION OF COUNTY LIVESTOCK COMPANY SATURDAY

The organization of the Xenia Livestock Company was effected at a meeting of the executive committee of the Greene County Farm Bureau and especially appointed committees, held in the assembly room of the Court House Saturday afternoon.

The new company will apply for incorporation papers in the amount of $3,000 and its purpose is to sell and ship livestock direct from the farmers to the markets, eliminating the middle man.

When the papers of incorporation are received, the Company will select a manager, whose duties it will be to handle stock shipments of all members of the company. Stock will be sold in the company for $1 a share, but as the organization is subsidiary to the Greene County Farm Bureau only Farm Bureau members can purchase stock. The stock being paid for out of the dues paid into the Farm Bureau, with no added expense to the buyer.

The livestock shipping plan has been tried successfully in other counties, according to Ford S. Prince, County Farm Agent, and thriving companies have been organized in Madison, Fayette, Clinton and other counties.

WOMAN SICK FOUR YEARS

Was Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Steen, Miss.—"I was all run down and nervous with female trouble and my sides pained me so at times that I could hardly walk. I suffered for four years with it. Then I saw your advertisement in the papers and I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel stronger and am able to do most of my housework now. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may use this letter if you care to do so."—Mrs. W. H. BLAKE, Route 1, Steen, Miss.

How many women, overworked, tired and ailing, keep up the ceaseless treadmill of their daily duties until they are afflicted with female troubles as Mrs. Blake was, and are run down, weak and nervous. But every such woman should be convinced by the many letters like hers which we are constantly publishing, proving beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will overcome such troubles and restore women to normal health and strength. Letters about your health will be given careful attention and held in strict confidence if you write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

She is one of the most popular models for the art classes at the Corcoran art gallery. With her glossy white hair and her quaint garbs she is a picturesque figure for the artists.

COUNTY TEAMS SPLIT TWIN CAGE CONTESTS

Antioch and Cedarville college basketball teams again divided a double header at Yellow Springs Saturday night when Antioch college boys defeated the Cedarville quintet 51-19, while the Cedarville girls won over the Antioch sextette 18-12.

The boys' contest was a farce, Antioch having it on the Cedarville tossers in all directions. The first half ended 26-6. Dwight Northup was the shining light for the Antioch attack with 14 field goals while Vannorsdall also performed well. Lawrence Riddle of this city newly enrolled at Cedarville, performed at right forward for the Cedarville quintet. The lineup and summary:

"SMILES"

Jones met his friend Stimson in the street the other night.

"Hallo, old fellow!" he exclaimed, "How are you getting on?"

"Pretty well, thank you," answered Stimson; "but," he continued, "I've something to say to you—you'll have to keep your eyes open next week."

"How is that?" queried Jones. "Because you won't be able to see if we don't," and before Jones could kick him he was out of sight.

Do you mean to say," said Wemy's, "that you have never discovered a redeeming feature in an habitual criminal?"

"Yes, I did once," admitted Briggs.

"Ah, I knew it!" cried Wemy's, triumphantly. "No one is all bad. What was it? Love of home? Kindness to animals? Love of children?"

"No," came the uncompromising reply "it was a pawnticket."

The doctor's children and their neighbors were having a glorious game of "animal." The big library table was surrounded by lions, bears, elephants and gay gazelles. Only Miriam had not chosen her beast.

"Hurry up, Miriam," shouted the other children. "Get in the game!"

"Well," said Miriam, "I do not want to be common animal like a tiger or a dog; I guess I'll be a germ."

"Aw, come off," said her brother. "A germ ain't no animal. It is a plant."

HOME CADETS TAKE TENTH WIN ON COURT

The O. S. & S. O. Home Cadets won their tenth straight victory at the Armory Saturday night when they defeated the Dayton Trinity Methodists 40-25. The visitors threw a scare into the local quintet in the first half by hanging on the heels of Coach Horen's tossers and the Home lads led only by a 14-13 score at the end of the period. In the second half, they came back strong and soon outdistanced the Dayton five. The lineup and summary:

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

JAPAN IS KEEPING WATCHFUL EYE ON NEXT PRESIDENT

Tokio, Feb. 21.—When Senator Warren G. Harding becomes President Harding in March, his inauguration and its attendant activities will be watched with deepest interest by the leaders in the Japanese Empire. Of interest to all of the Powers, the inauguration of President-elect Harding, the announcement of his cabinet and the general outline of new policy will have a more than ordinary interest to Japan.

A political leader in Tokio recently commenting on what might be expected from the Republican administration by Japan and the Japanese said: "Contrary to the usual belief the leaders of Japan are not so regretful over the success of the Republicans. We are sure of one thing under the Republicans. We will at least know what their policy is, strong though it is likely to be. Frequently, in formulating our ideas here about certain things, we would take the course of the United States into consideration. And frankly, we have had reason more than once to be completely at a loss to know just what may be expected under the Wilson administration."

The tales of Harding connections with the Soviet, emphasized by the reports of the Vanderbilt leases in Kamchatka, have not been taken for their full value in Tokio. It was pointed out here recently that with the country Vanderlip tells about frozen up a great part of the year, it would be folly to believe that business interests in the United States had backed the Soviet enterprise to such an unlimited extent.

The Tokio Government has been well pleased by the Wilson choice of Ambassador to Japan, and perhaps its great concern at the opening of the new administration is regarding the successor of Mr. Roland S. Morris as the representative of the United States in Tokio. Tokio openly favors Mr. Vanderlip, who, it is stated by some, feels that the position of Japan is being improperly presented to the American people in some places. And the appointment of Mr. Vanderlip as Ambassador would be one of the first acts by which the Harding administration might prove its good will toward Japan.

Then there is a group most noticeable among the publicists in general and Mr. Nakano, of the Tokio Jiron Eastern Review, in particular, who rally the Republicans against American political party many, many faults of which no party would be proud. Mr. Nakano, fortunately is not looked upon any too seriously by his own people.

THE WOMAN HE MARRIED

NAN'S ENTHUSIASM IS CHILLED

CHAPTER 96
"Wasn't Juanita lovely? And the whole affair wonderful?" I asked Dick as we walked home in the wee small hours. We had played bridge until 2 o'clock, then she had a dainty supper for us.

"Yes, it was very enjoyable." "And wasn't she beautiful?" I persisted.

"She looked very charming," I noted something in his voice as if he did not care to discuss her, but I thought him tired, or engrossed in his thoughts as he often was. His stories always gave him that excuse if excuse it were.

"I am going over to see that Mrs. Hibbard tomorrow," I ventured after a while. "She wants to talk about having her rooms refurnished."

"I shall be glad to get a large house to do. The more rooms the more money."

"Yes, of course," "And the more money the quicker we can have our house. We'll have a house-warming too when we get it all in order won't we?" I asked, warming to the subject. "I'll try to think up something different to do I'll have time enough even if we build right away."

"Yes, you'll have time enough." Just then we reached home, and Dick's remark that he wanted to jot down some ideas gave color to my feeling that his inattention to me and my talk of the house was due to some story forming in his mind. I was suspicious that anything affecting our future had influenced him.

I saw Mrs. Hibbard the next day and took the contract to refurnish her rooms as far as draperies, etc., went. She had wonderful rugs, and the painters would follow all my suggestions as to the walls.

Full of enthusiasm I hurried home to tell Dick. It would mean that we could get to work on the house immediately; also that we would not have to decorate piecemeal.

"I got it Dick!" I exclaimed rushing into his study, not seeing that Juanita was with him. "Yes, I did!" I added, trying to conceal my embarrassment that she had heard my exclamation.

"Got what?" Dick asked, while she said, "Hello, Nan!"

"Hello yourself! It was through you I met her, so I have to thank you."

"What are you talking about?" they both asked in unison.

"Mrs. Hibbard's house! I am to take entire charge of everything, as well as doing my part of the work. Isn't it glorious, Dick? Get the men to work tomorrow—we'll have our house-warming sooner than I thought!"

"What a lightning artist you are Nan! I am glad if you are pleased," Dick said but so coldly I felt all my enthusiasm oozing out. Was he ashamed of me, to have me work—to talk about it, rather, before Juanita? He had hinted to her once or twice that I was doing her bungalow simply as an accommodation. I was beginning to think I didn't understand my husband any more.

Dick had changed—that is, he had gone through several changes since we were married, but this last metamorphosis puzzled me, this indifference to things he before had appeared to think so vital.

Our troubles had been the cause of the first change, then his illness after that his effort to master an entirely new idea, that of writing, had accounted for much. But this intangible something—I could give it no name—that had come upon him of late seemed the greatest change of all.

Yet not in one thing could I explain just how he had changed. It was a tone, a look, a bit of indifference. That was all, unless it was his attitude toward Junior, now a big boy. He had been a bit severe with our son in some ways, especially when any question of morals or morality had been involved. Lately I had noticed that once or twice he had evaded the question with Junior, letting some statement go uncorrected which before he would not have allowed. I spoke of this once and Dick said:

"Junior is older now. He must judge, must learn to judge, what is right for him to do."

"Why—well, sometimes what is right for one, under certain conditions, is wrong for another, and vice versa."

"I suppose so. But don't you think him too young to differentiate?"

"No. He's old enough. Time he knew something of such things."

To Be Continued.
